ALTHOUGH this year commemorates the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Rhode Island State College, the history of the organization of the institution dates back almost eighty years. On that day in 1863 when the General Assembly of this State passed resolutions authorizing its Governor to accept and receive the land script which was its due according to the Agricultural Land Grant Act signed by President Lincoln in 1862, the real foundation was laid, upon which the college was developed. Thirty years of experiment, organization, and planning for the future development of the school intervened before the Agricultural College attained the growth and necessary requirements to earn the name of the Rhode Island State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts.

During the first tedious years, the land script of 120,000 acres was transferred to Brown University, which was forced to sell the land on account of lack of funds to meet the taxes on the property which, by the way, was located in Kansas. A fund of $50,000 was derived from the sale, and in 1888, a bill was passed establishing from this original land grant fund income, a State Agricultural School on an independent basis.

Development of the Agricultural School was slow but steady. Five different land sites were inspected before it was finally voted to buy the "Oliver Watson" farm in Kingston. In 1888, the first Board of Managers, headed by Mr. Charles O. Flagg, held its first meeting in an old corn crib which was located near Watson House. The first building construction did not take place, however, until 1890, when Taft Laboratory was completed. The first public acknowledgment that a college was in the making was made by fifty people who attended the laying of the cornerstone for this building. The same year money was appropriated to provide proper housing for the school, and College Hall and South Hall were erected. All was finally in readiness for the first class to enter the institution in September 1890. Thirty-three stalwart students gained admission by meeting the requirements which "embraced the ordinary English branches, arithmetic through square and cube root, geography, reading, spelling, and elementary knowledge of United States history". The members of the first class paid three dollars a week for their board, and room rent was five dollars per annum respectively.

Watson House 1942

With the year 1892, we arrive at a milestone in the history of the institution. It was at dawn one day that year when, with the help of several undergraduates, "Old Ben Butler" roared his last mighty roar to boom forth the news that Rhode Island had progressed from a school to a college with a schedule for two four-year courses, one in agriculture and one in mechanics. There were eleven departments of instruction, and 136 courses of instruction offered within two years after the founding of the college.

DOUTHFUL Rhode Island State College grew enormously in its first decade under the new status. At the end of two years the faculty was doubled. In 1894, the first drill was held for cadets. Soon, in response to the need for winter drilling quarters, additional classrooms, and a library, an appropriation was deemed necessary. The next year was a critical and progressive one, historically, for although College Hall, the only men's dormitory at the time, was destroyed by fire, the first provision for boarding women students was arranged by the remodelling of Watson House.

Many other noteworthy incidents occurred in these ten years during which the college was served wisely and well by its first president, Mr. John H. Washburn. In 1897, Volume I of the Grist was published, and Lippitt Hall was built. It was in this year that the organization of the poultry course took place, the first of its kind in American agricultural colleges. In 1898, a preparatory school was established under the direction of Marshall H. Tyler, for young people who were unable to attend college because they did not have access to a high school course or other proper means of preparation. In 1902, Dr. Washburn resigned his office as President of the college. In several months he was replaced by Mr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, who directed the affairs of Rhode Island for over three years. In 1904, the first Student Council was organized and membership in Phi Beta Kappa was restricted to "those who have not received less than four A's in any one term record." In 1906, at the same time that Dr. Howard Edwards took over the presidency, the preparatory school was abolished because after eight years of its existence, it seemed to be crowding out the regular college work.

The ascension of Dr. Edwards to the president's chair marked the beginning of another era of progress at Rhode Island College. In 1907, four degrees were obtainable for the first time, in agriculture, engineering, home economics, and applied science. In this year, the first Beacon was published, the first "Soph Hop" was held, and the "Hobo Club — to promote grace in walking and prevent Sunday studying" was organized.

Great organization took place among the students in this period. In 1905, the Young Men's and Women's Christian Associations were prominent undergraduate organizations. In 1908, the first fraternity, Rho Iota Kappa, was organized, and in 1909 the first girl's basketball team was started. 1910 saw the establishment of the Honor System and the introduction of Freshman Rules. Rhode Island's athletic relations with Brown also date from this year. In 1908, the system of the division of the school year into two semesters instead of three terms, was first arranged. The social calendar at this time included such functions as the Military Ball, musicales, informal hops, and an annual informal reception given to the Freshman by the Junior class. It was decided that new buildings were needed due to the overcrowded conditions that had begun to appear in classrooms and dormitories, for the attendance had increased to 170.

Davis Hall 1942

IT was also decided that because the full name, Rhode Island College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts was too lengthy for such a progressive organization, it should be shortened to Rhode Island State College. In 1910, owing to the increased interest in sports and the growing importance of football and athletic teams at the college, work for the needed funds for an athletic field and clubhouse was started by the students.

During the decade from 1912 to 1922, two new buildings appeared on the campus, Science Hall in 1913 and Agricultural Hall in 1921. The main event of the Freshman calendar in these years was the Freshman-Sophomore rope pull. In 1912, Junior Week was instituted at Rhode Island State College, with the Junior Prom as its feature attraction. It was the custom for the Juniors to give a commencement ball to the Seniors. During these years a great many of the extra curricular activities gained in importance on the campus. The first annual varsity debate was held in 1916, Pan-Hellenic Society made its beginning in 1919, the Chemistry Society was formed in 1920, and Phi Delta's first play was produced in 1921. 1921 was an especially memorable year for the Rhody sports enthusiasts, for Rhode Island was the victor by 1 point in the clash of its basketball team with that of Harvard; although the Brown University football squad took the upper hand in their conflict, with R. I. by 1 touchdown. At the close of the decade, five national fraternities and two national sororities had placed chapters on the Rhode Island campus, and there were sixteen clubs of a widely varied nature in existence. Favorite college expressions in the "twenties" included "bumming", and coeds were defined as the "femine species of student usually distinguished by a dumb expression and a corn fed appearance." The Rhode Island campus was coming of age.

From 1922 until 1932, the campus prospered in every way. The Business Administration course was added to the curriculum in 1923. Edwards Hall, Memorial Gateway, Bliss Hall, and Rodman Hall were erected before the "thirties". Rhode Island undergraduates began to gain prominence in the New England sports world. In 1926, a scrappy coed basketball sextet and hockey team entered their tenth undefeated season of matches with Connecticut College. The men's Rifle Team lost only three of its thirty-three matches, and Rhode Island's debating squad won its first triangular debate with New Hampshire.

In 1927, the H Company of the 6th Regiment of Scabbard and Blade was organized at Rhode Island. In 1928, the interfraternity council was reorganized to be all-inclusive, and the Women's Glee Club first appeared in conjunction with the Men's Glee Club. But two years later the campus was sobered by misfortune when, in the spring of 1930 the college mourned greatly the death of its president, Dr. Edwards, who had faithfully seen the college through many prosperous years. In December of the same year, Dr. Raymond G. Bressler was appointed to the presidency.

War Memorial

IN 1932, East Hall was converted into a cafeteria for men and women, the infirmary was established, new roads were laid and the president's house was built. At the close of 1932, the campus numbered twelve fraternities and three sororities, and its extra-curricular activity had expanded to include some twenty-six clubs and organizations. Socially, the campus was progressing, and with the introduction of "talkies down the line" on Saturday nights, the usual Saturday night silent movies with the dances which followed, were failures. As a result, in 1932, the dances were turned over to organizations, and for the first time a fixed fee was charged by the sponsors.

The last ten years, have been stormy years and progressive years, Rhody sons have seen hurricanes blow, revolutions in teaching methods take place, and they have seen the college come close to its goal of becoming a university and another exchange of presidents take affect. In the last decade, the student body has gained its prominence in college student government. From the establishment of the Sachems in 1932, the students have progressed to a form of Student Senate, established in 1941, which is more democratic and progressive.

The Glee Club, which first presented the Messiah in 1933, has in less than ten years gained reknown in New England's musical realm.

Beginning in 1934 a custom of electing a mayor of Kingston has prevailed and is now becoming a campus tradition.

These ten years have seen great physical progress in the building up of Rhode Island State College. In May 1934, an appropriation was made which provided for a new women's dormitory, a new library and administration building, an improved dairy barn and the remodeling of Lippitt and Edwards Halls. In 1935, a new Home Economics Building was completed. Three years later, dedication ceremonies, attended by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mr. Robert Quinn, who was Governor of Rhode Island at that time, gave these buildings their official titles. The next step in the building program it is hoped, will be an enlarged gymnasium to fulfill the needs of the expanding Rhode Island sports activities.

Rhode Island State College athletics have gained prominence in the last decade. In 1938, four Rhode Island men made the all-conference basketball team and now Rhody boasts the national scoring champion in basketball. The Keaney teams are still thrilling the basketball world with their two-point-a-minute scoring ability, and they have traveled to Madison Square Garden for two years to bring fame and honor to the college sports record. The Rhode Island track team has also built up its strength and power. In the last four years the campus has seen records smashed right and left, with the final victory of a national championship for the track stars of Rhode Island.

The graduating class of 1942 was ushered into Rhode Island by a hurricane in 1938.

Bliss Hall

IN four years on the campus, the class has seen the institution of the college carnivals which appeared in the fall of 1939 and 1941, for the benefit of the Scholarship Fund. In the Spring of 1942, they participated in celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of their college.

This year the college is undergoing another great change in its curriculum. Wartime measures are making it necessary to reorganize the college system on a quarterly basis. At present it is only necessary to let facts speak for themselves in relating the progress of the college. In 50 years the college enrollment has expanded from 33 to 1200, while the faculty is over ten times its original size. It is hard to estimate what advances the next half century will bring. Probably none!

The physical growth of the college is of historic significance and an effective indication of the maturity of the college. Rhode Island State College is growing old gracefully, showing its age in the comparison of its meager beginnings with the facilities which it has to offer now, at the close of a half century. Rhody has progressed from a small settlement of three buildings and a vast amount of rock-strewn, overgrown New England swamp land until the school now numbers nine halls of learning, three dormitories, Home Management house, Watson house, sixteen privately owned fraternity and sorority houses, a field house, football field, tennis courts, the experiment stations, and the President's residence. From fifty people watching eagerly the laying of a cornerstone, the college has progressed to a position of importance to merit dedication ceremonies of one of its buildings conducted by the First Lady of the United States. It's semi-centennial anniversary will be celebrated by twenty times those fifty earnest souls who witnessed the lowly birth of Taft laboratory.

Rhode Island State College has gained fame through the achievements of its graduates and undergraduates. Its Glee Clubs have gained an enviable reputation in New England. "State" basketball and track teams have spread its name nationally. In addition to the Rhody graduates who have won acclaim for their college in diversified fields, professors and instructors, while studying on the campus, have advanced revolutionary theories in science and research. Rhode Island farmers and those from other states as well, have come to depend on the Department of Agriculture for their farming information and the latest developments in agriculture. The Home Economics department has introduced many a new wrinkle in the realm of nutrition and home management. The brilliance of the Rhode Island engineers is recognized each year as a result of their labors. The college is rapidly assuming its responsibilities of service to the nation as well as to the state.

It is hard to estimate what advances the next half century may bring. Perhaps when Rhode Island reaches the ripe old age of three score and twenty it will boast university rating in the higher ranks of educational institutions.

CLASS HISTORY

WE entered like a whirlwind — figuratively and literally. Those first few weeks were a whirl of learning our class song, getting acquainted with the 400 odd others like us — the largest frosh class ever to enter Rhode Island State up to that time; taking English tests, aptitude exams, physical exams; getting talked to and at; trying to learn in a cataclysmic rush the campus gossip and vernacular; and attempting to become State-wise in a few activity packed weeks. We came from practically every Rhode Island secondary school, with talents sufficient to stage a seven ring Rhody Revenue — boasting a drum majorette, pianists, violinists, and stage dancers. In our midst were seven sons and daughters of retired or active Army and Navy officers, eight faculty “children”, two sets of twins (one distinguishable, the other not at all), eleven family combinations, and one student from Christobal, Canal Zone.

All this before the literal whirlwind, in the shape of a mere hurricane, on September 21. Trees falling, lights failing, wind howling — something none of us will forget for a long time. After a nightmare of dangling electric wires, blocked roads, and lashing wind, scenes of terrific desolation and destruction confronted us. Dr. Bressler announced that classes were suspended until electric and water repairs were completed. All pitched in to do the very necessary relief work — including the “lowly frosh”. The college cafeteria employees, working under the seemingly unsurmountable difficulty of not having any electric power, performed the Herculean feat of serving 3000-4000 hot meals daily to all those engaged in repair work. One week later we came back to classes — to a rather somber campus minus a few trees.

On October 1, we were able to see a national personage pay her first visit to our college. Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt arrived on campus to participate in the formal dedication of Eleanor Roose-

Amid craning necks, curious stares, and clicking cameras, the gracious First Lady lighted a dedicatory fire in the fireplace of the Great Room — spacious room of the dormitory now bearing her name. Three other buildings were also christened that day, in the presence of Governor Quinn. The Home Economics building was named Quinn Hall, in honor of the Governor; the gymnasium was called Rodman Hall, in honor of Thomas C. Rodman, first superintendent of buildings at Rhode Island State College, and the field house was named after Repre-

This month was also the occasion of the nineteenth year of Frank Keaney's athletic directorship — who, incidentally, was one of the greatest athletes ever turned out by Bates College.

The college network program was initiated October 6, an event attracting an encouraging number of freshmen as talent and "control" artists. Of this frosh talent, John Sanik and Frank Donilon did, and have continued to do, excellent and arduous work for the network.

The football yearlings won their first game, defeating Marianoplis, 27-6, and the same month saw the arrival of the Infirmary's "Sully", who stated her intention of presiding over her domain "with an iron hand".

Fraternity rushing over, frat bids were accepted by 145 first year men — nearly one-half of the class. In the meantime, nine freshman girls were being subjected to some rushing around a hockey field, and a creditable job they accomplished. Annie Bristow, Mary D'Arcy and Peg Brown were in there with the best of them.

The month of November saw our hopes for a new building program vanish for the time being. The building expansion program, for a successful handling of oversized enrollments, was an $800,000 project which was to have included a new Chemistry and Physics building; a recreation center featuring swimming pool, an indoor track, basketball and badminton courts and classrooms, and a plan to enlarge the bleachers and walls at the athletic field. Despite faculty, student, and administration agitation, the bill, when it went up for referendum, was defeated.

"Frosh Beacon" published the night before the Freshman banquet, under the editorship of Albert Kopech (know which one?) and Mae Burt. Reading through that paper we find that the afore-mentioned Stanley Modlezewski worked his way up from the reserves to smash Chet Jaworski's record of 209 points by garnering 288 markers in 12 games, or an average of 24 points per game in his first year of college basketball. A summary of frosh activities in this same paper reminds us that we had apt cheerleaders in Donald D'Avanzo, Betty Richmond, and Nancy Farnworth; that Lloyd Conrad was a promising golfer even then; that the freshman basketball squad came close to duplicating the varsity average with a 68.7 point average per game; that we had an outstanding pianist in Emil Benson, and outstanding leaders, scholastically and politically, in Betty Richmond and Frances McVay.

Our first activity packed year at Rhode Island State College ended socially with the Freshman Banquet held in Lippitt Hall, May 20, 1939. Guests and speakers present consisted of President Raymond Bressler, Class Advisor Thomas Cox, Dean of Freshmen Weldin, Dean Barlow, Coaches Beck and Cieurzo, and Coach Joey Lees. The banquet part of the Banquet being dispensed with (without undue difficulty), numerals were presented the class athletes by Coach Beck, followed by a demonstration of necromancy offered by Dr. Weldin. Then dancing to the tunes played by Phil Monte's band was in order, and so our Social Affair ended.

This same scholastic year ended officially with a harrowing week of finals, then off to our various and sundry interests for the summer.

was a very satisfying feeling. We proudly compared the depths of tans, variety of summer travels, and spouted our newly acquired "Rhodyese" to what we hoped were admiring frosh.

The Newman Club was started that fall — Edward Maher and "Bobby" O'Neill were among the new members and have continued active participation in the club program. Important events in November were: the Harriers' placing third in the N.E.I.C. 3A meet, under the leadership of Les Nichols; the first Homecoming Day Carnival — a huge success, and winning Dr. Pease, organizer of the affair, much deserved commendation; and Elmer Congdon being awarded a trip to Chicago as state winner of a 4-H Rural Electrification Contest. A blow to a number of those on the "borderline" was the announcement that the probation program in effect would be discontinued. The new order decreed that total quality points must equal required credits, and seniors who had deficiencies at the end of the first semester or first semester deficiencies at the end of the third quarter would not graduate with their class. The month ended with the "Bloomer Boys" inflicting a humiliating defeat on the "Garter Girls" — the score standing 3 to 2 at the end of the game, but our hardy soph hockey star Peg Brown scored a goal for the "Girls", with Miriam Shanley guarding their cage.

The next class issue of the Beacon was the Sophomore Beacon, appearing the night of the Sophomore Hop, December 15. Mae Burt was elected editor, Al Kopech, managing editor, of the issue which featured details of the class dance. Bill Rutledge as Social Chairman headed the Hop committee, which secured the band of Kearney-Kallander and scheduled a Snow Dance. Ruth Oldrid emerged victorious from the ranks of seven candidates for the title of "Sweetheart of '42".

The Alpha Zeta cup was awarded to Frances McVay for the highest frosh average attained in the Agricultural curriculum. Two announcements of importance were made in this month. Dance regulations were drawn up by faculty members concerning permissions, engagement of the hall, deposits, refreshments, and smoking rules; and participation by ten Rhode Island State students in the Civilian Pilot Training program of the Civil Aeronautics Authority was approved by the Board of Trustees. A sad blow to the student body was the loss of Leonard Smith, well known graduate assistant in economics.

Starting the new year, Dr. Bressler arranged for election, by the entire student body, of four students to serve as a committee to consider management of the Blanket Tax Fund, still a sore issue with a number of students. The library had itself made more efficient and attractive by the addition of new reading tables, lamps, and a mural. Thirty-three sophomores made first semester honors, and Norm Wilcox proved his mettle placing fifth in the National A.A.U. title competition.

national intercollegiate scoring record with a score of 495 points for 21 games, surpassing Jaworski's 477 point national record. The brilliant sophomore's 509 points amassed by the end of the season shattered all existing collegiate records and broke the sophomore and junior records.

Another interim offered by a storm came in the form of the worst ice storm to hit Kingston in a decade. That night, amid the creaking of ice laden boughs and electric wires, an intramural candlelight debate was held, and a candlelight "vic" dance was given at Chi Omega. When power was restored the next afternoon, the campus resumed normality, except for small groups of camera bugs scattered all over the campus.

In March, Dr. Bressler was granted a sabbatical leave, harbinger of the spectacular events which were to develop during the next month. The Junior class assumed leadership in the student agitation which arose over what was unexplained administrative action. When pressure finally reached a breaking point, the Board of Trustees announced that Dr. Raymond Bressler would no longer hold the position of president of Rhode Island State College. made for both sides concerned, and there followed very trying and confusing days for the campus. A student committee of 39 members from all organizations on campus conducted mass meetings to determine how the student body wished to express their demands for explanation of the dismissal, and an impartial committee was sent to see the Governor, but the matter ended there, as far as student action was concerned. Under Dr. Bressler's administration of nine years, Quinn, Green, and Eleanor Roosevelt Halls were built, the Animal Husbandry building was constructed, Lippitt Hall was remodeled, and the alumni body was increased by a number of 1472 in eight years.

The student-faculty committee which had been appointed to study the blanket tax situation, submitted a lengthy report, after two months' study of the situation, which showed a need for revision of the set-up as it existed.

Phi Delta presented a delightful play, "The Drunkard" which enjoyed a very favorable success — one of our class thespians, Virginia Walsh, had a leading part in the production, giving out with her usual creditable performance.

Conforming with the then prevalent naming buildings vogue, Agricultural Hall was re-named Washburn Hall, after the first president of Rhode Island State College — Dr. John H. Washburn. Guess habit is stronger than new names, though, because most of us still go to classes in "Aggie". Another building stepped into the limelight when it was announced that South Hall, former athlete residence hall, was to be closed to dormitory use.

Tennis season caught the campus un-awares, and both boys' and girls' courts were soon in use all day long. The women's tennis team boasted sophomore stars in

GRIST

Rosalie Burt, Betty Richmond, and Martha Corrigan, and provided the fans with some tense and well-played games. Fred Tew put in some good performances for the men's varsity team in the sport which has become increasingly popular at State during the past three years.

The year ended with Competitive drill, the annual military drill which never fails to attract crowds to its display of color and precision. Fred Hancock won the military manual for the distinction of being the most outstanding sophomore at the affair; presaging his future military success for his next two years at State.

One of the last official announcements of the year was faculty approval of proposed changes in the honor system. The new plan was to determine honors on a percentage basis with the standard set on the upper ten percent of the class. Senior honors would be based on maintaining an average in the upper ten percent of the class for three years. Under the old system, to make the honors list, a student was required to have a 2.0 average or, better.

Once again we had to attempt to study for final exams when the beaches were putting forth such urgent invitations — and don't think that a good number of us didn't heed the call — the beaches were sprinkled with students boning up on courses while basking in the sun. But exams ended, as they always do, and we left for the summer again — a few of us not to return.

In September, we viewed with less superciliousness the smallest freshman class in recent years — our new attitude, as befitted Juniors, was detachment, rather than "debunking". Buying books proved to be a pleasant interlude, rather than an ordeal. The new knotty pine, spaciously laid out, and well equipped Bookstore was an unbelievable boon to those of us who had in the past purchased our scholastic implements in a crowded, dingy, poorly equipped room, in what is now the night watchman's office. It was the start of the forty-eighth college year, and our third campus year. Of the original 400-odd students, 271 were left, — a rather large toll, but something to be expected in the weeding out process which is an integral part of an educational institution.

Bill Mokray was appointed Sports Publicity Director — a position he is well qualified. It was Bill who originated the terms "point a minute", "Rams", "Ram-ettes", — pithy names which have aided in acquainting the public with our athletic teams and their accomplishments.

With October came the news that all our boys over 21 had to register for the draft — so critical were conditions in Europe. Wild speculations as to the amount of time it would take to find out draft numbers and worried faces were rampant on campus. In time, as we all know, some of our “eligible” students started to leave us—voluntarily and otherwise. Twenty C.A.A. graduate private pilots formed a flying club — “The Flying Rams”, including Francis Maguire and the late Gilbert Kornstein, esteemed classmate killed in a flying accident.

The college network started on its first full year of programs and election fever started to run high. A Willkie club was formed and election issues were debated in many lively discussions, a Beacon survey showing that students favored the G.O.P.

After months of agitation, choosing committees for investigations and having a final report submitted, the first Blanket Tax meeting was held, with three faculty committee members and a student committee comprised of one member from each organization petitioning for money from the fund.

Scholastic honors for the year 1939-1940 were achieved by forty-one of our group. Class executive honors were won by President William Rutledge, Vice-President Anne Peterson (Babbitt), Secretary Mary Clarkin, Treasurer Eddie Maher, and Social Chairman Arnold Anderson.

Two major events turned the public spotlight on Rhode Island State College during the month of November, 1940 — one participated in by the college as a whole, the other by an athletic team. For 45 minutes, the college broadcasted from Edwards Hall over a 99 station hook-up on the Blue Network. The program was sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in a Farm and Home Hour's Landgrant College series. The theme of the broadcast was "How the State College Serves the People by the Development of Resources". Faculty members discussed department achievements, the Glee Club, the College Quartet (including Paul Johnson, present head of the Concert Choir), and instrumental units provided the musical portion of the program. Class schedules were arranged so that students could be present when the program was under way, and the audience was allowed to participate to the extent of modulated applause and controlled laughter.

The second event important to the spreading of Rhody's fame was the capturing of the I.C.4A. title by our Ram Harriers. Six hundred students stormed the Kingston station to greet the cross country champs, and an exuberant stream of cars wound back to the campus, wildly acclaiming its heroes. Among the Tootellmen who conquered the first national title for Rhode Island State College, were Lester Nichols, Charlie Tingley, and John Moran, faithful and victory-producing athletes. Their triumph represented the highest peak in national recognition which any little Rhody team has ever attained.

"Our "Roll-Em-Up" Rams rolled up triumphs to the point where practically all Rhode Island State College was planning a trip to the Garden to see the State-St. Francis game. A special train was chartered to convey about 1100 thrilled fans to see Rhody's first appearance on the floor of the basketball capital of the nation. "Success or failure spelled success or failure for that year's campaign to break into the inner circle of competition". We won the game, 57-42, and Rhode Island's rip-roaring style of play came to stay. Even the disappointment of losing in an overtime game to Temple at Philadelphia, 42-

The girl's hockey team was not without glory, either. A very successful season resulted in a statement by Bill Mokray that it was probably the best college female hockey team this side of Philadelphia, "hotbed" of hockey. Veterans Shanley, Clarkin, Barlow, and D'Arcy were still turning in their usual good performances.

to say goodbye to seniors whom we had known during these years, envied them the bang-up last week they put in, and enjoyed ourselves tremendously as their guests at the Commencement Ball. So we departed again for the summer, but with the realization that the next time we left, it would be with diplomas in our hands.

Returning in September, we view with interest what would be the last freshman class we could appraise and "advise". The "Freshman Bible" had been compiled by members of our class — Editor Donald Johnstone heading the staff of ten, and it was purchased by what proved to be the smallest entering class in years — one indication of the effects that a war has on educational institutions.

October saw the fondest dreams of twelve seniors come true — election to Phi Kappa Phi at the fall selection — the highest scholastic honor attainable at Rhode Island State College. Of the 223 members in the class, these students had maintained the highest averages for three years — averages ranging from 2.9 to 2.3, out a possible 3.0 mark. A sports banquet was held for the victorious football and cross country squads, attracting the largest crowd ever to attend such a function in Rhode Island—a fitting honor for two teams which have done much to promote Rhody sports fame.

However, all these events were overshadowed by the outbreak of war between our country and the totalitarian powers. A panicky wave swept over the student body, for most of us were not old enough to have remembered the last war. Wild rumors of the college's closing were circu-

Faculty and administration advice to remain calm and level-headed was followed as we settled down to normal living, under the circumstances, resolved to continue with our college routine, but to help out whenever we were called upon to do so.

CLASS of 1943

French, Walling, McCabe, Carpenter, Tanner.

Junior Class Officers

President.....	ROBERT McCABE
Vice-President.....	NANCY CARPENTER
Treasurer.....	HOWARD FRENCH
Secretary.....	MURIEL WALLING
Social Chairman.....	ROBERT TANNER
Faculty Advisor.....	DR. LEE C. WILSON

THE class of 1943 has contributed many outstanding personalities and achievements to our campus.

It has been an outstanding class for the past three years of its stay here and will be the first class to graduate under the accelerated program.

Howard French, Nancy Carpenter, and Bob McCabe have been selected as the leaders of the Juniors. The treasurer is Muriel Walling and social chairman Bob Tanner, one of our very able baseball players.

The basketball team owes much of its success to the Junior members of the squad. Bob Applebee, the tall lanky guard from Maine, has won the respect of the fans with his swift work under the backboard. Earl Shannon's (a Pawtucket lad), aggressiveness and sportsmanship on the court have been commended by all. Hank Sperling and Howie French have also shown ability. Our track team has become famous this year for breaking records. Bob Nichols, our track star with the personality smile, has led our team home to victory every time.

The co-eds have displayed great skill on the hockey field, basketball and tennis courts and are not to be outdone. Nan Carpenter is the star of the Junior Ramettes.

Chi Omega can be duly proud of Muriel Dickenson, their representative for co-ed colonel. She was chosen by Scabbard and Blade to be their leader for the year 1942 and 1943, succeeding Ruth Oldrid.

The Junior Co-eds took an active part this year in the Ivy Chain, part of May Day activities, with Margaret Easterbrooks as the leader.

CLASS of 1944

Stearns, Whitaker, Dwyer, Lincoln, Hedison.

Vice-President	ELIZABETH LINCOLN
Secretary	RUTH WHITAKER
Treasurer	GRANVILLE STEARNS
Social Chairman	DAVID HEDISON
Faculty Advisor	MRS. MARGARET PARKS

WE, the Sophomores salute you. In our two years on Rhody's campus, we have tried to live up to the reputation of those who have come before us by keeping up our high scholastic rating and participating in extra-curricular activities.

In our Sophomore year, we again chose the same leaders with the exception of Betty Lincoln who was elected to the Vice-Presidency.

Donnie Dwyer, has been a triple threat throughout his short football career and deserves much acclaim. Armand Cure has contributed much to Rhody's aerial circus in football and in basketball. George Mearns deserves mention here for his ability to pick the basketball off the backboard. Then who can forget two of our better harriers, Larry Barret and Bill Allen, or those breathtaking catches of the pigskin by Larry Panciera?

The co-ed ramlettes must not be overlooked in the panorama of sports for they have added much zest to our spirit. Betty Lincoln, Ruth Whitaker, Dottie Angell, and Harriet Stene are prospective letter women.

Darthea Bacon, an outstanding Sophomore in scholarship, has great literary ability which is so aptly displayed by her many contributions to the Rhode Island Review.

The Soph Hop was a success due to Dave Hedison's managerial ability. The queen of the affair this year was Mary Lightbody. Our class also had another queen in the person of Betty Lincoln who ruled over the Aggie Bawl.

We shall carry on under our leaders for the endurance of the accelerated program and make Rhody proud of us.

Social Chairman	GORDON DAVIS
Faculty Advisor	MISS MARY A. REILLY

“THE CLASS OF 19 and 45”

entered Rhody in September and experienced a week of orienting by faculty and student leaders. The usual dances were held and get-acquainted programs started.

At the end of the football season, the boys were allowed to remove their Freshman caps because of our victory over Connecticut, but the girls had to wait until after Christmas before they could discard their green ribbons.

Miss Reilly was voted class advisor of the “frosh” and under her guidance they are bound to be a great group.

Many from this, our baby class, have won scholastic honors. Yvonne Hunter leads them on.

The traditional May Pole dance was done by the freshmen women with much enthusiasm. They entered into the spirit of the occasion and made it a success.

Dick Morse, who left college in February, was beginning to show great possibilities on the basketball court. We all miss his keen Rhody spirit and winning personality.

As Freshmen, we are still looked upon as an insignificant group, but the time will come when we too shall be dignified upper-classmen.

In our short stay here, we have been active in many extra-curricula activities including sports, debating, and campus publications.

ATHLETICS

Baseball Team — 1896

INTRODUCTION

THE fiftieth year of the existence of the college was marked by outstanding sports achievements in the half-century of Rhody's life. State titles, sectional titles, and national titles were added to the already large list of extraordinary achievements in State athletics. The national title was the first one won by a Rhode Island athletic team and was a distinct mark of the sports' progress at Kingston.

The football team, in its first season under a new coach in 21 years, contributed one of its best seasons. William M. H. Beck, Jr., a Rhody alumnus succeeded his former chief, Frank W. Keaney at the helm of the gridders and did an outstanding job in producing five victories and one tie out of a possible eight game schedule. A near victory over Brown University was one of the feature highlights. Another was the fact that no less than 56 candidates were out for the team, the largest football delegation in the history of the college.

Coach Fred Delmont Tootell developed the best cross country team in the history of the sport, here or elsewhere. Besides winning all of their dual meets, they went on to smash all records, team and individual, and win the New England, the I.C.4A's, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet as well. This feat had never before been performed since the inception of harrier racing. Quite a feat and quite an honor for little Rhody. In Bob Nichols they boasted the greatest distance runner ever to matriculate at Rhody, and the outstanding runner in New England at the present time.

The basketball team, under the expert guidance of Coach Frank W. Keaney, once again performed in top condition, gaining recognition as the best team in New England, winning the New England Conference Crown for the sixth time, and playing the nation's best in the Sportwriters' Tournament in Madison Square Garden, "the world series" of the hoop sport. In Stutz Modzelewski, the hoopmen had the new national intercollegiate scoring leader and in Stutz as well as Bill Rutledge, they boasted two men mentioned on numerous all-star and All-American fives. Being as it was the Golden Jubilee of basketball and that of the College's founding as well, these outstanding performances coincided favorably.

The baseball team coached by Frank Keaney, won the New England Conference title, for the third time and compiled an outstanding record of 11 victories in 14 starts. This achievement was second only to that of Holy Cross, the tops in this section. Three members of the varsity nine, namely: Warner Keaney, a pitcher, Bud Conley, a shortstop, and Duke Abbruzzi, a very classy first-baseman were good enough to be scouted on more than one occasion by major league scouts.

The outdoor track team regained its New England title and performed in creditable fashion to finish fourth in the I.C.4A. meet. The Tootellmen also stretched their dual meet win streak to 22. The team also boasted its first I.C.4A. individual champion in Bob Nichols, titleholder of the two-mile run. Norman Wilcox was also the leading weight thrower in the East.

The tennis, golf, and rifle teams also performed in capable fashion to keep up with the general tendency of outstanding performances by Rhode Island teams.

The 1941-42 sports season was the best ever had in the fifty-year existence of the college. Never before, in one whole year, had the college sports representatives so completely dominated the sectional athletic picture or figured so prominently in national sports competition. It is indeed a fitting tribute to our coaches, Frank W. Keaney, F. Delmont Tootell, Bill Beck, Paul Cieurzo, and Kenneth L. Knickerbocker and the undeniable result of good, hard, smart tutoring. If Rhody continues to progress in the future as it has in the past, then it will be the nation's best in everything in no time.

FOOTBALL at Rhode Island State experienced one of its best years in 1941 under its first new head coach in 21 years. When William M. H. Beck, Jr. assumed command of the gridiron forces in September of that year, it was the first time since 1920 that someone other than Frank W. Keaney was directing the footballers. Beck, a Rhody alumnus and former pupil of Coach Keaney, succeeded his mentor after having served as his assistant for the past seven years. His capabilities may have been doubted at first, but at season's end, all uncertainties as to Bill's qualifications had disappeared even from the most ardent skeptics, as he piloted his team to one of the best gridiron seasons in the college's fifty years of existence.

With only a dozen experienced hands available with which to start the campaign, Coach Beck with the unexcelled assistance of his backfield coach Paul F. Cieruzo, molded one of the largest and best all-around small college football squads in the East. Bill's popularity grew daily and potential aid came from all sources. At one time as many as 56 candidates were in uniform ready to do battle when called upon. The climax in numbers was reached in the Massachusetts State encounter, when 46 players, in all, saw action on the field of play at one time or another. The 1941 football squad, by far the largest in Rhody's existence, was one of the most spirited, capable, and dependable ever to represent the Ram banner. It displayed the qualities of its tutors on the field of play to such an extent that it was able to win five games out of an eight game schedule, while losing two and tying one.

One of the Kingstonian's oldest rivals, the Coast Guard Academy from New London, Conn., was the first football machines in the Ram's path to success. Not having beaten the Rhode Island entry since 1922, in the past 11 contests between them, the Cadets assured themselves of their initial triumph early in this game. Benefiting from abundance of manpower, and home grounds, the Coast Guardsmen ran roughshod over the Beckmen. It was the initial contest for both clubs, but the victors had been at practice for over a month before the Rams began their pre-season training. Furthermore, they boasted one of the strongest small college elevens in the country, a fact which was later very well displayed as their season progressed, and they annihilated all of their opponents with ease.

The Merrimen displayed a devastating attack from the start and scored twice in the first period and once in the second stanza. The spearheads of these attacks were their Captain Bill Thompson and Buck Carter, two excellent backs. Incidentally, the sailors had a veteran team operating, the only newcomer being at the center slot. Meanwhile, the Rhode Islanders' attack failed to materialize consistently enough and injuries to four key men before the first half was over further hampered their efforts. Having chalked up a 19-0 lead at the completion of the first half, the Cadets came back in the second half to complete the rout, with the aid of three intercepted passes and triumph by a 38-0 score.

The defeat failed to dampen the morale of the squad but instead, it spurred them on to greater achievement to prove to their followers that they were better than the result indicated. With four regulars injured, Coach Beck went searching for replacements and came up with the season's sensation in Bill Rutledge, one of the outstanding all-around athletes Rhode Island has ever produced. Blond Bill made good in his first start against Maine University. A regular grinder in high school, Bill had not participated in the sport since matriculating at college, three years before. However, he proved his mettle by sparking his team to a 20-13 upset victory over a strong Bear eleven at Orono. Rutledge ran 95 yards for a touchdown, and tossed two passes, one each to his ends, Jim Harvey, and Larry Panciera, for tallies. This contest also proved that the club was improving with each contest and that mistakes made in previous games had been adjusted.

The third contest for the Ram eleven proved to be a warmup. The Kingstonsians had a field day at the expense of the Lowell Textile team, their opponents at Meade Field on that occasion. The final tally was 39-0 in Rhody's favor. The contest was not as loosely played as the score may tend to indicate, but the opposition was not of too strong a variety. It enabled the Rhody coaching staff to make use of the large number of substitutes, and thus give them experience for later games to come. It was a game without injuries and put the Rams in good condition for their all-important contest with Brown University on the following week.

The first intra-state football contest for State with Brown proved to be one of the outstanding football games ever played at Brown Stadium in many a year. The Rams had been pointing for this contest and played from start to finish with a vengeance and courageous spirit that was wonderful to watch. The capacity crowd had not one dull moment in the entire 60 minutes of play. The Beckmen outplayed their more highly touted rivals from the start and the first half ended with neither team having scored. The local offensive machine functioned well, but on several occasions fell just short of completing a pass or a run that would have meant a score. George Conti gave one of the finest exhibitions of field generalship seen in years in addition to producing the outstanding defensive plays of the entire afternoon. In the latter department, Walter Blecharczyk was also immense. The defensive play of the Rams had been taken as something to be proud of, but in this game, it attained the pinnacle of excellence. The Ram forward wall continuously outcharged and outplayed their opponents, and in the end it was the reserve strength of the Brunoians coupled with the smile of Lady Luck which spelled victory for the Stayhlymen.

The second half began in much the same fashion as the first had been. The Kingstonsians stuck to their guns and pressed their opponents constantly backward. Near the end of the third quarter, a long run by Swingler, a penalty, and a successful pass put the Bruin in scoring territory. However, the Ram defense stiffened and two attempts to pierce the Rhody forward wall from the two yard line failed. Then in desperation Coach Skip Stahley sent in his first-string back-field and Dick High just managed to sneak over on the next try. The point after was good. Brown 7, Rhody 0.

The clubs continued to battle on even terms for a while and then the Rams made their bid. A long pass from Rutledge to Harvey placed the Rams on the five yard line. On the next play, Narducci went over the goal line on a line buck, but it was nullified by an offside. The next play brought the Rams back to the two yard line; then Rutledge attempted to pierce the line for what would have been a sure score, but as he hit the line he was tackled, and in the process, Bob Priestly, the Brown right end came in stole the ball and raced 98 yards for their second tally. He also kicked the point-after-touchdown to make the score 14-0 in their favor. The steal was disputed by our team but to no avail, the referees failing to agree with the Rhody reasoning, which was later proven to be absolutely correct in the motion pictures taken of the contest.

Coaches Cieurzo, Tootell, Beck.

Following this saddening turn of events, the Beckmen surged back to score on a long pass from Armand Cure to Jim Harvey, the point was good and the score was 14-7; it remained that way till the end. It was really a heartbreaker for Rhody to lose after having fought so valiantly throughout the contest, and then to have all efforts nullified by a referee's decision. It was a game that Rhody could well be proud of.

The next home game was a replica of the first one with Lowell Textile, the home forces winning by a comfortable margin of 34-6. The loser's tally did not materialize until the latter part of the fourth period when the substitutes were holding sway. Coach Beck used 46 men in this contest, an all time high in Rhody gridiron annals. Donnie Dwyer, the sophomore sensation continued his amazing display of running and punting, and as the individual spark-plug in the rout. This contest enabled the coaches to rest their regulars for their next game, that with Providence College, their other intra-state rival. This was a night game, and the Rams' third in the span of 11 days, quite a burden. It was one of the outstanding battles of the entire season and produced enough thrills for the capacity crowd of 12,000 to last them for another year. The tide of battle see-sawed back and forth, with first the Friars in command and then the Rams. This game was for keeps and neither team would give an inch. There were several attempts for successful scores, but in the end neither team had managed to penetrate past the final chalked line of the other and produce that highly desirable tally.

Rhody's air attack was more than troublesome to the Smith-hillers and the latter's ground attack had like effect in the Rhody camp. At the end of the 60 minutes of relentless battle, the score was still 0-0. The defense of each team was strong enough to repel the offensive onslaughts of each forward wall as was exemplified by the failure to score. The game was played at La Salle Field and attracted the first capacity crowd since the inception of the arc-light classic five years ago.

Rhody went after its fourth victory on the following Saturday in a game with Worcester Tech at Worcester. It was one of the worst days on which to play, for the field was drenched from continuous rain, and the going was treacherous. The elements hampered the Ram attack which functioned well on dry territory and after scoring a touchdown on a Rutledge to Conti forward pass, the Rams settled down to protect their lead. Only straight football was resorted to for fear of injuring one of the players by the employ of razzle dazzle. This win gave the Beckmen a record of four wins, two losses, and one tie in seven games. A win in their last encounter would provide them with one of the best records ever recorded by a Ram gridiron machine in recent years.

A Homecoming Day atmosphere was in the air as the State and University of Connecticut varsities took the field. Earlier in the morning, the Ram yearlings had walloped the Husky Frosh by a 26-6 score and the varsity was eager to do the same. Being the last game of the season, it marked the last collegiate appearance of the seniors, namely: Co-captains Edmund Maher and Albert Carpenter, Bill Rutledge, and Maurice Flynn. A banner crowd was on hand to watch the proceedings and they were not disappointed.

Connecticut had had a mediocre season and they were out to gain a triumph in order to salvage something from their disappointing campaign. However, the Rams had other ideas and thwarted their opponents' attempts to tally time and again. They were not idle themselves and managed to score in the first quarter to make the count Rhody 6, Univ. of Conn. 0. No scoring was done throughout the remainder of the game but the complexity did not change. The struggle gained in intensity as the minutes ticked off and the U-Conn's became desperate; only some brilliant pass interceptions by George Conti saved the Rams from being scored upon and possibly defeated. The colorful contest added to the star-studded all day celebration which included a gala carnival highlighting the evening's festivities.

Friday Night Rally

Bud Carpenter

The 1941 football team had no individual brilliant star, such as Duke Abbruzzi was in the 1940 eleven, but it substituted brilliant teamwork, undaunted courage, spirit, and fighting determination in its place to be regarded as one of the best elevens ever to represent the Blue and White in its half-century of existence. There were no individual standouts in this group but an interdependent machine which functioned smoothly under the guidance of Coaches Bill Beck, and Paul Cieurzo. With one successful season under their belts, these two mentors will no doubt be able to continue their highly commendable coaching careers. In Conti, Blecharczyk, Cure, Heditsian, Conyers, Harvey, Panciera, Fournier, Narducci, Flori, Gruposo, Bertwell, Bellino, Dubee, Smith, Coates, and Zweir, the coaches have a sizeable aggregation of talent about which to form a nucleus for another winning team, (providing Uncle Sam's forces don't take them first).

CROSS COUNTRY

MOST of Coach Frederick Delmont Tootell's followers had firmly believed that he had reached the pinnacle of success in harrier coaching during last autumn. Their contentions were on the support of the brilliant showings that his charges had made during the cross-country season of 1940. They based their beliefs on the fact that the Ram Varsity harriers of a year ago had won all of their dual meets, swept the New Englands, captured the I.C.4A. crown and finished third in the N.C.A.A. But they had evidently underrated the much esteemed and highly regarded Toot. Those rooters had probably forgotten that the impossibilities of one are the possibility of F. Delmont Tootell. The proof in these statements is simplicity in itself.

With a veteran team back from the successful campaign of 1940, Coach Tootell with the aid of his assistant Doc Erwin moulded the greatest cross-country team ever to run in the country. The latest edition of the Ram harriers won all of its dual meets, the New Englands, the I.C.4A's and climaxed this colossal season by also capturing the N.C.A.A. meet. It was the first time in the history of the sport that one team had swept all honors. It is also the first undisputed national title to come to Rhode Island. This is the greatest achievement that any team can ever accomplish and the greatest honor that any coach can ever earn.

The first dual meet with Fordham University at New York City provided Ram followers with some very cheering news. With Bob Nichols pacing the way, the Rhode Island contingent had the first five men across the finish line and thus scored a shutout against their namesake from Gotham, a rare occurrence, indeed. The final score was Rhody 15, Fordham 51.

The next dual meet with a supposedly strong University of New Hampshire team, proved without doubt that the Rams had not scored their first shutout on a fluke, because they again turned the trick and again on foreign territory. This time the score was 15-40 in our favor.

A very strong harrier five from Northeastern University came to Kingston late in October intent on resting sectional laurels from our favorites. However, when the final tally was made, they had to be content with a 17-43 beating and had to consider themselves lucky to escape being the third victim by a perfect score. The fourth place garnered by Mike Pronodsky was all that saved them from being shut-out. Bob Nichols again led the pack.

Then came Rhody's arch sports rivals, the University of Connecticut runners. They managed to extend the Rams to a slightly greater extent than the others had done but succumbed to a 20-38 trimming. The race was contested on Rhody's course and was witnessed by a large throng. Robbins of the visitors was the only contender but he finished far in the wake of Bob Nichol's blazing finish. It marked another undefeated harrier season in dual competition, the third in a row.

Continuing their winning ways, the harriers went on to Boston early in November and captured the N.E.I.C.4A. meet with a record breaking team total of 23 points. Bob Nichols was the individual winner and he also set a new record of 20 minutes flat for the 4-mile course. They bunched their first five finishers in the first ten, bettering last year's result by seven points. The 4-mile course record at Franklin Park has been set and reset by the Ram runners in their victory campaigns over the past few years.

One week later, at Van Courtland Park in New York City, the Tootellmen recaptured their newest laurels, the I.C.4A. trophy which was won by them for the first time in the previous year. This victory proved to the racing public that the 1940 feat was justly deserved. They set a new mark of 31 points as a team total. Although Bob Nichols failed to win, he was not far behind the greatest runner of the present era, Les Mac Mitchell, the N.Y.U. flash who won the solo crown for the third consecutive time. The new team total of 31 points shattered the previous standard, set by the Kingstonians in 1940 by 41 tallies. The Rams had a tremendous margin of points over their nearest rival. This victory clearly stamped them as the tops in the East in cross-country.

Just one week later, the undefeated runners traveled to East Lansing, Michigan in quest of their first victory in the Nationals. This time, they succeeded in defeating over 100 teams from all over the United States, and become the first team in the history of the sport to win the N.E.I.C.4A., I.C.4A., and the N.C.A.A. titles all in one year. It was the culmination of the greatest record in harrier history by the greatest team in history. The Rams notched their triumph with a sparkling 83 point team total with Bob Nichols again showing the way finishing in 7th place. Coach Tootell's axiom of work, work, and more work sure produced the results.

BASKETBALL

THE Golden Jubilee of basketball was celebrated at Rhode Island State with another very successful season, culminated by their second appearance in the Writer's Tournament at New York. The Keaney coached courtmen competed in 21 scheduled contests with the strongest fives of this section in addition to the post-season clash at the Garden.

The Hoopsters won 18 games out of 21 during the regular season defeating such highly talented quintets as Fordham University, St. Joseph's College, Holy Cross, Springfield College, and the University of Connecticut among the stronger teams in the East. Providence College and Brown University, our local rivals also were beaten during the campaign. Tufts College, Maine University, the University of New Hampshire, Northeastern University, and American International were other teams to feel the power of the galloping Rams.

Each of the New Conference members were defeated twice and the Kingstonians thus captured their sixth conference title in six successive years. Twice they scored more than 100 points against the University of New Hampshire. The first time, they set a new intercollegiate scoring record when they trounced the Swaseymen by a 127-50 margin. This surpassed their previous record of 103 points which they posted in the first clash with the University of Connecticut at Kingston in 1940, and won 102-81.

Second Row: Sperling, Pansa, Lownds, French, Obradovich.
Third Row: Coach Cieurzo, Mearns, Manager Goldman, Federico.

The only losses suffered by the Rhody-ites were at the hands of Temple University in Convention Hall in Philadelphia, Pa., Providence College at the Auditorium, and Brown University at Marvel Gymnasium, in a much disputed contest, as well as in the post-season classic, by Toledo University at New York.

The Rams were led this year by their two outstanding co-captains, Stanley Modzelewski and Bill Rutledge. Modzelewski, the nation's highest individual scoring champion for the past two seasons gained additional honors by setting an all-time recognized mark for total points scored in four years in college. He shattered the previous mark by 1596 points set by Hank Luisetti of Stanford University in 1939 by tallying 1730 points bettering the former total by over 125 points. Stutz was again named to numerous All-American quintets and gained national recognition for his talented court achievements. He established new individual scoring marks for Rhode Island State, New England Conference, sectional, and national competition.

Rutledge on the other hand, while not as dominant in the public eye, contributed his third highly appreciated varsity campaign. The blonde forward's steady brilliance was matchless at home. His coolness under fire, and an enlightening play at the opportune moments was once again clearly displayed in his exhibitions at Madison Square Garden as well as at home. He became the fourth man to join the select circle of Rhody "1100 point" scorers joining such other stars as Chet Jaworski, Stutz, and Bud Conley.

Invaluable aid came from two new regular members of the hoop squad in the persons of Earl Shannon and Bob Applebee. Shannon replacing the talented Bud Conley at forward, the latter having graduated, did a splendid job. He covered the court with deftness and speed and played a major portion of each game. He tallied 360 points for his first regular fling on the varsity; last year he alternated with Applebee on the forward line. Applebee was the most improved player of the entire squad and contributed some magnificent defensive work to combine with his outstanding offensive efforts. From his guard position, he managed to score a total of 289 points, a very high mark for a guard. The other defensive post left vacant by the graduation of Flip Keaney was alternately filled by Armand Cure and George Mearns. An injury to the latter's right hand early in the season, lessened his effectiveness and Cure saw action the majority of the time. Both were sophomores and will probably each see regular service next year. Cure excelled defensively on several occasions.

The 1941-42 basketball season was one of the most successful in several years and gained in significance by the fact that it was the Golden Jubilee of the hoop sport as well as the Golden Jubilee of the founding of the college. Once again the Keany-men captured the Conference crown and were ranked tops in this section as is proven by their selection for the Sport-writers' Tournament in New York. The latter is generally regarded as the "World Series" of collegiate basketball, and to be chosen to compete in it, is surely a distinguished honor, of which few teams hereabouts can boast.

The Rams opened their hoop campaign without the usual "soft touch" quintet as their opponent. Instead, they were opposed by a very powerful St. Joseph's team here at Rodman Hall. The visitors displayed one of the best players seen here in years in Bud Senesky, a 6'2" forward who did a magnificent job in holding Bill Rutledge to a low total while tallying in double figures himself. The visitors played without their regular centre and this was a decided handicap. The nip and tuck struggle ended with the home team out front by a 75-62 margin. It was the opening contest for each team, but despite this the quality of the contest was of mid-season variety. The Hawks once again proved to be one of the best attractions by packing the gym, although minus their scoring star of a year ago, Larry Kenney. The game was very cleanly played and much to the liking of the spectators.

Tufts College then invaded Kingston and was smothered by a 73-39 score. The Keaneymen swarmed all over the visitors and scored with reckless abandon thus avenging the farcical contest which the Medfordites produced last season on their home court. The only satisfaction they gained from this game was that they held the Rams to a figure lower than their accustomed "two-points-per-minute" total of 80. Modzelewski and Shannon again led the Ram attack with Rutledge and Applebee not far behind.

The first victim of the Ram "100 point" surges was American International College from Springfield. They succumbed to the tune of 103-64. This game was an easy one for the Rhodyites and they went to town. The game was fairly rough but never close. The regulars saw little action in the contest leaving soon after they had established a very comfortable lead. The substitutes took over and performed creditably for the remainder of the contest.

The first 1942 appearance of the Rams in Madison Square Garden occurred when the Rams met their Gotham namesake on January 3. It was the feature contest on one of the more prominent double-headers sponsored by Ned Irish in his New York emporium. The fast and fancy passing and shooting of the Keaneymen once again captured the fancy of the crowd and they proved their appreciation by cheering loudly at each opportunity. The game was very closely fought and wasn't won until the teams had entered an overtime period. At the end of the regulation time, the teams were tied at 52 points each. The herculean efforts of Bill Rutledge enabled the Rams to tie up the ball game in regulation time and to win in the extended session. He more than capably filled the breach after Stutz had been dismissed from the game on personals soon after the second stanza had begun. The latter had tallied nearly one half of his team's total at the half-way mark. The Kelleher-coached squad fought the local entry to the finish but the smooth-working Rhode Islanders managed to come out on top at game's end. It was marked by another

Frank Obradovich

"Ram Special" under the full supervision of Bill Mokray. The proceeds from the trip netted approximately $600 to the Fiftieth Anniversary Fund, a worthy cause indeed.

It marked the fourth consecutive triumph of the season for the Rams and stamped them as possible candidates for the tournament later in the season. Rutledge tied the all-time Garden record for field goals by netting an even dozen and his all-around play met with the approval of all. Cure played an exceptionally good game defensively. Fitzgerald and Loeffler of the visitors were thorns in the Rams' cause until their departure late in the game via the foul route.

Maine University was the first conference casualty. The Oronomen lost by a 79-48 margin having little to offer in the way of opposition for the smooth working Rams. It was their first game of the season and they were not ready for the opposition supplied by the local quintet. Modezewski again led the team in the offensive department while Applebee, who had begun to find the range, contributed a good share of points. Shannon and Rutledge performed their usual competent roles. This was the first New England Conference victory for the winners and started them off toward their sixth consecutive conference title.

The first loss of the season was supplied by Temple University at Convention Hall in Philadelphia. The elongated Owls had too much height for the Rhode Island delegation and scored a 57-49 triumph. It was the second loss in as many years to the Messikomero lads in the same place. Rhody started off in grand fashion and had built up a 9 point lead in a short span of playing time, but the Quaker City lads, led by their tall sophomore forward, Bob Dorn and set-shot ace Angelo Musi pulled even and then passed the Keaneymen near the end of the first stanza. Try as they might the Rams, could not close the gap and their late surge was for naught. A small band of faithful rooters, students, alumni, and fans made the trip to cheer the team on.

The Rams recovered from their initial setback to defeat Northeastern University a few night later by a large margin, 98-60. It was their second conference win in as many starts. The scoring power of the Rodmanites was too much for the Dunnmen and they failed to give the Rams the expected brand of opposition. Once again Coach Keaney resorted to wholesale use of his substitutes in order to keep the game from being a total romp. The scrubs just missed bringing the total up to the century mark by two points.

Providence College provided the next upset on the Rams' schedule when they nosed out the Keaneymen, 60-54, at the Auditorium in Providence. The triumph was the first for the Crottymen in some years and was well earned. The Friars outplayed their intra-state rivals most of the way and struggled to the end to gain the triumph. For the Kingstonians it was the second loss of the season and the first to local competition. The game was not indicative of the capabilities of the local aggregation and their style of play that night was not the type which the Rhody fan is accustomed to see. The loss of Applebee and Modzelewski via the personal foul route midway in the second stanza decidedly hampered their chances for victory.

Rhode Island had to come from behind to triumph over the University of Connecticut in a game at Storrs by a margin of 66-59. The visitors trailed all of the way with the exception of the last ten minutes when a late surge brought them out front where they stayed till the conclusion of the contest. There were no tickets available for Rhody fans, the athletic authorities at Storrs deciding not to sell in order to exclude any possibility of another disturbance resulting from an over-crowded gym as was the case a year ago. The Ram sharpshooters found their range late in the game and Stutz, Rutledge, and Shannon fired in enough points to win. This was the third consecutive conference win for the Keaneymen and placed them in the top spot.

Massachusetts State and Worcester Tech were also added to the list of Ram victims in the same week marking the resumption of school after the mid-year recess. The Statesmen were trimmed by an 83-68 score, while the Bigler quintet was trampled by an 86-59 margin. Neither game was closely contested as neither of the two teams had a team equal to the task of making the game close. The Rams had begun to hit their stride and would be hard to beat. Both games were played away from home, the Mass game at Amherst and the Tech contest at Worcester.

The weakest team to face the Rams all year came to Kingston soon thereafter to play the Rams. It was their misfortune to meet the Rams when they were red-hot and a new intercollegiate scoring record was established. The Rams waltzed to a 127-50 win. Coach Keaney pulled his regulars out after about ten minutes of play and did not send them in again, but even that could not keep the score from mounting. The Durhamites just could not cope with the offensive strength of the local quintets and had little in the way of an offense of their own. No less than six Rhode Islanders scored in double figures. This was a new record total for one team in regulation 40 minute contest in recognized college basketball circles.

Brown University, Holy Cross, and Springfield College were the next victims with Connecticut and Northeastern victims for the second time in the interim. The Holy Cross game was a special contest for the Navy Relief Fund at the Auditorium.

It provided a highlight in being the night when Stutz broke the existing 4-year scoring record. A capacity crowd saw this contest which was part of a charity double-header. The Crusaders provided unexpected opposition.

Maine, New Hampshire, and Providence College were the next victims on the Rams' list. The first two games were away and the last one at home. Rhody again tallied over 100 points against the Swaseymen winning by 102-54. The victory over Providence College avenged their early season setback and placed them in the lead for the mythical state championship. The score was 68-54 in favor of our team but the Smith-hillers fought to the end.

Brown provided the third defeat of the regular campaign by being declared the victor 83-82 in a very shaky decision by the time-keeper. Stutz scored a basket as the gong sounded which many believed to be the winning points for State; the timer then ruled it had been made after time had elapsed and Rhody was the loser instead of the winner. The game, other than being the last collegiate contest for Captains Stutz Modzelewski and Bill Rutledge, had little bearing on State's chances of being picked for the Writers' Tourney in New York, and the announcement of their selection was made on the following day.

In the Tournament contest, the Keaneymen ran afoul a good ball club in Toledo University from Ohio and a scoring star in Bob Gerber, who led his team to victory by scoring 37 points breaking all existing records for individual scoring in the Garden in the process. The team scores also established new Tourney marks. The game was fast from start to finish and had the fans reeling at the end. Although beaten, Rhode Island gave a good account of themselves and were still favored to come back by many of the fans, and writers. Bill Rutledge was the individual Ram brilliant displaying a magnificent brand of play, but he failed to get the needed support from the rest of his teammates to come out on top. However, he was selected on the All-Tournament team along with Stutz Modzelewski and both competed in an all-star game at the Garden several days after the tourney ended.

This was one of the most successful seasons in Coach Keaney's 22 year reign. The loss of Rutledge and Modzelewski through graduation will leave large gaps to fill on next year's quintet. However, the Menty can usually be counted upon to produce another winning combination. This team won the New England Conference crown and was again tops in New England.

Obradovich, Lownds, and Pansa will also be lost through graduation.

In winning their sixth successive New England Conference championship, Rhode Island State again walked off with the principal honors. Stutz Modzelewski, the peer of the nation's scorers, was the coaches' sole unanimous choice for the All-Conference team, in addition to being the only repeater of last winter's all-star five. Modzelewski, for the third successive year, led the league in all departments of offensive play, with a total of 189 points for Conference competition.

Winzler, of Connecticut, Bob Applebee and Billy Rutledge, of Rhode Island, missed winning unanimous choice for the All-Conference team by a single point, while Al Pajonas of Northeastern and Earl Shannon, of Rhode Island, had six of the eight possible votes.

INDOOR TRACK

THE varsity indoor track team once again competed with the top-flight relay teams in the nation during their 1941-1942 season. Although, they failed to win any of the races in which they were entered, it was really no fault of their own. The relayers were again matched against the finest mile relay teams that the country can boast. Their mediocre showings were due mainly to the lack of experienced runners and reserves, and also to the lack of adequate facilities to capably train them for the indoor competition.

Forced to run their practice sessions on the small wooden oval aside the gymnasium, they were no match for the teams that could train on the wooden tracks laid out in spacious field houses, where the elements come into very little play. The Tootellmen also had lost two of their starting quartet from last season and the two newcomers, Jim Cole, and Mal Shurtleff, were forced to produce without previous experience. Only Lincoln Bagshaw and Dick Fournier were available from last year's team.

The Rams competed in six meets, namely: the Millrose meet in New York's spacious Madison Square Garden, the B.A.A. Games in the Boston Garden, the New York A.C. Games in the 49th Street Arena, the A.A.U. meet in New York, and Cole, Bagshaw, Coach Tootell, Fournier, Shurtleff.

Bullock, Dahl, Platt, Burdick.

the K. of C. and I.C.4A. meets also in Gotham. In all of these meets they were matched against the best in the field, as was exemplified by the fact that the heats in which the Rams competed, were usually the fastest heats of the night. Running against such teams as: Syracuse University, Pittsburgh University, Boston College, Tufts College, Villanova University, Williams College, Seton Hall College, St. John's College, and Colgate University, the indoor-men performed creditably although they failed to win any of the races. They did manage to gain one second, three thirds, and two fourths out of their efforts. The team which was composed of Dick Fournier, Lincoln Bagshaw, Jim Cole, and Mal Shurtleff ran in that order through most of the meets.

The relayers' performances were somewhat augmented by the competition of the weightmen, who also competed in several of the indoor fracas. Norman Wilcox managed to win the 35 pound weight throw in the A.A.U. meet and also gain a fourth in the same event in the I.C.4A. championships. Jack Kreuger, Rhody's ace shotputter, earned a third place in the A.A.U. meet, and a fourth in the I.C.4A. in his specialty. Bob Nichols, State's outstanding distance runner competed in several of the invitation two-mile runs but failed to place. Lack of experience proved to be his biggest handicap in running against the nation's best.

The indoor trackmen once again swept the Cambridge Intercollegiates, the informal meet sponsored by Harvard University. Many of the Rhody second-stringers competed but still gained enough points to win the meet unofficially.

Second Row: Hedison, Conley, Keaney, Zammarchi, Abbruzzi, Cranston.
Third Row: Coach Keaney, Tanner, Cornell, Coonan, Jones, Pansa, Verrechia, Duranleau, Larson, McNally, Stetson.

COACH FRANK W. KEANEY, regarded in these parts as an outstanding baseball mentor, proved his wizardry in the diamond game by producing one of the best nines to operate in New England. His 1941 team won 11 games and lost only three, a record bettered only by the consistent Holy Cross nine. Speed and smart baserunning were the factors which helped the Rams garner outstanding success on the ball field. They set new base stealing records for the New England Conference and unofficial records for intercollegiate competition.

Weakness at the plate, a constant ailment at State, was almost eliminated, being supplanted by some very good all-around hitting. This fact can very well be illustrated when one realizes that the Rhody team scored a total of 85 runs to their opposition's 23 in the 14-game schedule. Besides capturing the conference title, the Keaneymen tied with Brown University for the mythical State championship, and defeated Providence College twice. The hurling was of the better variety and was capably handled by Warner Keaney, Bob Tanner, and George Conti. Bud Conley, the regular shortstop also took a successful fling at twirling. Bill Rutledge was the hitting star of the Rams finishing the season with a .354 average, while Duke Abbruzzi captured the fielding honors. The Duke was regarded as one of best all-around initial-sack guardians to be seen in New England. Keaney and Conley were also under the scrutiny of major league scouts.

The Keaneymen scored three shutouts in their winning total. The goose-eggs were chalked up at the expense of Lowell Textile, in the season's opener, Providence College in the game at Kingston, and the third shutout was pinned on Brown University also at Kingston. In winning their fourth conference crown, the Kingston forces defeated Maine twice, both here and away, the University of Connecticut twice, also at home and away, and split with Northeastern University, winning the game at Kingston and losing the Boston encounter by respective scores of 7-1, and 0-1; New Hampshire University was the only team in the conference on whom the Rams failed to pin a defeat. The Durham-ites scored a 2-1 victory over the local team in the only meeting between the two clubs. The game at Durham was postponed. It was the only home defeat of the season for the Rams.

The Rams also boasted victories over Worcester Tech, by a score of 10-2, and Boston University, to the tune of 10-5. Brown University was defeated by a 2-0 score here, while they nosed out the Kingstonians at Aldrich Field by a 3-1 margin. Providence College was a double victim, having a shutout pinned on them at Kingston, 3-0, and being walloped at Hendricks Field by an 8-2 score.

Besides Co-captains Warner Keaney, Duke Abbruzzi, Bud Conley, and Frank Zammarchi, State also boasted among its veterans, Bill Rutledge, Rene Duranleau, Lyman Cranston, Bill McNally, Bud Jones, Elmer Cornell, Hike Hedison, and Artie

Pansa. With the exception of Jones, Cornell, Pansa, and McNally, all of the rest were regulars and saw action in each contest. In addition, considerable aid was received from sophomores Bob Tanner, George Conti, Tobey Coates, and Frank Bellino to mention the more prominent ones. The invaluable aid in the pitching department of Tanner and Conti cannot be rightly enumerated in the allotted space. They, together with Warner Keaney, accounted for all of the victories with the exception of the Boston University one which was chalked up by Bud Conley. The hitting and fielding of the Ram nine was of a very fine variety and was very instrumental in the Rams' victory string. Abbruzzi and Cranston were the chief base-stealers and pilfered more than a dozen bases between them. Their hitting, along with Conley's was also very timely.

Hedison cared for the majority of the backstopping duties and proved his worth.

Only Cranston, Rutledge, Tanner, Conti, Pansa, Bellino, Coates, and Hedison are left for this year's team. However, several promising candidates are available from last year's frosh team in Dave Hedison, a brother of the capable Hike, and Donnie Dwyer. Both of these lads are excellent outfielders and will probably greatly aid the Ram cause on the diamond come spring time. Jim Cole and Bob Magee, shortstop and pitcher respectively on last year's freshman nine, are expected to provide Coach Keaney with two very needy reserves.

OUTDOOR TRACK

THE 1941 Rhode Island State College track team ended its sixth consecutive undefeated season in dual competition. The Tootellmen conquered all foes with ease, including some of the most formidable teams in the East. Manhattan University, always a power in New York track circles, was soundly trounced at Kingston by a $95\frac{1}{2}$ - $39\frac{1}{2}$ margin. Boston College one of the best teams in New England was handily defeated by an $82\frac{2}{3}$ - $52\frac{2}{3}$ score. The University of Connecticut, Brown University, and the University of New Hampshire were the other victims by respective scores of $121\frac{1}{2}$ - $13\frac{1}{2}$, 94-41, and 98-37. These scores were previously unheard of in track circles and the margins of victory, sometimes nearly 90 points, were unbelievable.

However, the quality of Ram track and field aggregations has never been questioned, not since F. Delmont Tootell took charge in 1924, and their fame has spread far and wide. Many of the larger schools in the country will no longer compete with the Kingston track outfits for fear of having little chance of winning and not willing to risk a loss. Coach Tootell had one of the best all-around track teams in his coaching career last spring. In the field events, he had such outstanding stars, as:

Jack Kreuger, Al Gudeczyauskas, Norman Wilcox, Mel Jewett, Dick Forte, Joe Weisman, Bill Forsstrom. In the running events, his performers included: Bob Nichols, Bob Black, Bob Dixon, Bill McNally, Herb Gosling and Link Bagshaw among others. Frank Cromwell, John Mahoney, and Forsstrom, Jewett, and Forte were the competitors in the jumps.

Aside from again completing an undefeated season, the Tootellmen won the New Englands with a total of 30 $\frac{2}{3}$ points, from Holy Cross, thus recapturing the title they relinquished a year ago, and finished fourth in the I.C.4A. meet in New York. In the New England meet, the Rams won five individual titles to capture top honors more easily than heretofore. In the I.C.4A's, they managed to win only one individual crown, Bob Nichols winning the two-mile run, but managed to obtain additional points on the fine showings of Wilcox, Kreuger, Forsstrom, and Cromwell in their respective specialties, to gross a total of 18 $\frac{3}{4}$ points to finish behind New York University, the titleholder, Pittsburgh University, and Penn State in that order.

Nichols and Forsstrom established new Rhode Island records in competing in their favorite events. Bob won the two-mile run in 9 minutes and 26 seconds, and Bill jumped 6 feet three inches in the high jump. This feat gained him second place. Krueger gained a third in the shot and a fourth in the discus, while Wilcox took second in the hammer. Forsstrom also finished fifth in the broad jump and Cromwell gained a tie for fifth in the pole vault.

The 1941 squad was not regarded as a very strong aggregation at the beginning of activity. However, the skeptics must have underrated the ability of the nation's top ranking coach to formulate winning combinations from mediocre talent. Those who follow track closely at State have taken the latter achievement for granted and will become "peeved" if it fails to materialize in any one year. The five dual victories boosted the Tootellmen's total to 22 consecutive dual wins and made it 29 out of the last 30 meets. Just try and beat it.

The 1942 aggregation has lost few of the veterans from last year and will probably prove as formidable as their predecessors. Forsstrom and Weisman have left school and newcomers will be counted on to take their places.

COACH KENNETH L. KNICKER-BOCKER, mentor of Rhode Island's second youngest varsity sport, tennis, is rapidly falling into the pathways marked by his older brethren in the coaching field. With limited funds, facilities, and interest as only a few of the obstacles to contend with, the varsity net coach is slowly but steadily moulding a team which will be worthy of carrying the Rhody colors. At present, Coach Knickerbocker has at his disposal six tennis courts which he must share with the women candidates and the predominant "would be" hopefuls that tend to flood the playing surfaces at the wrong times.

In 1940 the team won 2 games and lost 5. In 1941 the tennis team was triumphant in 5 matches and defeated in three, a decided improvement.

Winston Hey is the only member of last year's team who has gone. Back for another season are: Al Villatico, Ray Bayha, Ed Allen, Howie French, Richard Sayles, Fred Tew, and Michael Pierik, all lettermen. In addition, a very capable player from last year's frosh aggregation in the personage of Don Gamble will no doubt aid the cause. The 1941 netmen chalked up victories over Brown, and Springfield.

GOLF

THE 1941 golf team, weakened by the loss of all but one of its experienced men from the previous campaign, experienced a sad season marked by only two victories, six losses, and one tie. Coach Paul F. Cieurzo had only Larry Harrigan around whom to form the nucleus for his golf team. The green hands that filled in the rest of the positions, did a creditable job, but their inexperience, especially, in competition against other performers, some of them top-flight, proved too much of a handicap.

The divot-diggers opened the season with a loss to Harvard; then came a victory over Maine University, and a loss to St. Joseph's, from Philadelphia, and a loss to our intra-state rival, Brown University. Trinity College then tied the Cieurzomen, but they hit the skids again and lost to Boston University; they recovered in time to score a victory over the U. of Connecticut, then turned around and lost to the Huskies in the second half of the round robin series. Their final defeat came at the hands of Worcester Tech at Worcester.

Although there are no lettermen returning for this spring's competition, some of the players who saw action last year will be returning and the experience gained from last season's contests should put them in somewhat better stead for the 1942 campaign.

FRESHMAN CROSS COUNTRY

THE Frosh Cross-Country team was once again overshadowed by their more aspiring varsity brethren. Although, they managed to win no titles, either sectional, or national, they did indicate some promise for future use. They won three out of their four meets, losing only to the University of New Hampshire harriers.

They defeated Westerly High in the opener by a perfect score, thus equalling the feat of the varsity which performed in like fashion in their initial 1941 start. The score was 15-49. Their next start was the only defeat they suffered, when they were nosed out by the Durham runners, 28-27. The foreign course hampered their efforts, the men getting confused in trying to follow the strange distance. The Ramlets then went on to lick Northeastern University's representatives by a 23-32 score previewing the result of the varsity tangle between the two schools which was even more lop-sided and won by Rhody. The U-Conn frosh were the last victims bowing by an easy score of 18-40.

Gordon Davis was the star of the frosh harriers. He led the team to the finish in every meet except the last one, which he missed through illness. He received much assistance from Mannie Furtado, Bob McElroy and Ken Taylor. Davis and maybe some of the others will be of future use to Coach Tootell. Since he loses three men through graduation this spring, Toot will be able to use any promising newcomers.

The Ramlets avenged their defeat by the New Hampshire runners by trimming them in the New Englands. Davis was the individual winner and led his team to triumph.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

COACH FRED D. TOOTELL finally realized one of his main ambitions. His 1941 frosh football team completed its season with an unblemished record. The yearlings won four games and tied two in their six-game schedule. It was one of the strongest first-year squads to be seen here in several years and forbade cheerful news for the football campaigns to come. The powerful Ramlets defeated the Northeastern University frosh by a 24-7 margin in their first game, tied Brown University 0-0 in their second encounter, and also tied Providence College 13-13 in their third contest. Then they went on to trample Boston University's yearlings by a 26-6 margin, wallop the University of Connecticut cut '45 27-6, and smother the Narragansett Harbor Defenses eleven to the tune of 27-0. In all, the freshman team tallied 117 points while holding their opponents to a meagre 32 point total.

Several times in recent years Coach Tootell has had teams that looked like they would end the season with a perfect record, but this is the first time that it really occurred. The backfield performers were especially good displaying a variety of talented passers, kickers, and runners which will aid Bill Beck next season. Ed Dahl, Frank Wright, Teet Topazio, and John Stellitano were the starting backfield quartet. They received plenty of help, however, from other talented runners in Johnnie Carrocia, Jim Lamphear, and Frank Linehan. The linesmen were not overshadowed on this squad boasting such formidable stars as Al Niemczura at the center slot, Zeus Aldrich, and Russ Bennett at the guard position, and John Miller, and Bob Knight at tackle and end respectively.

The passing and kicking of Wright and the running of Dahl were the standout performances for the frosh. The record that these lads compiled is far better than last year's team could accomplish and shows a distinct improvement in the calibre of play of the freshman elevens. Considerable aid in coaching these youngsters was given Coach Tootell, by Lt. John Moss and Nick Orlando, both ex-undergraduates of Rhode Island State. Their help in teaching these youngsters can be more fully appreciated when one considers that the coaching staff was undermanned, and in addition, Toot was also busy with his championship cross-country team during the same part of the scholastic year.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Second Row: Bacon, Kapouch, Linchan, Lamphear, Topazio, Bressette.

THE 1941-42 Freshman basketball team found the Rhody style of basketball playing much to their liking and although they managed to win only three games out of nine, they did manage to roll up the points and average 65 points per game. The latter feat speaks well for their future use, since that is the only worth of yearling team, to get them in readiness for varsity competition a year hence.

The frosh quintet lost twice only to Brown University's frosh. The latter had one of the better first-year teams in their history. The other losses were to Providence College, University of Connecticut, Northeastern University, and Rogers High School. The latter was an informal contest for the Newport U.S.O. fund and was not on the regular schedule. They did manage to avenge the defeats at the hands of the Providence College, Connecticut, and Northeastern quintets, by defeating them in return engagements. One scheduled contest with the St. Paul's School of Garden City, Long Island, was cancelled. The club is coached by one of Rhody's outstanding luminaries of several decades ago, Red Haire.

Lack of height and reserves hampered the yearlings no end throughout their abbreviated campaign. In several of the losing contests, they found themselves out in front but later relinquished the lead after having had one of their key men dismissed from the game via the foul route. The replacements were far below the regular in playing ability and as a result they lost the game more than not.

Harry Donabedian, ex-star for Aldrich High School, was the outstanding individual performer. A good shot with either hand, Don was the play maker of the quintet. He played well throughout the entire campaign and led the team offensively with a total of 187 points, a season's average of nearly 21 points per game. However, he received plenty of aid from his two forward mates, Hugh Holburn and Gordon Davis, who tallied 128 and 117 points, respectively. Holburn, a lanky boy, was hampered throughout by a malignant charley-horse in his right leg. The injury was instrumental in reducing his effectiveness offensively and defensively because it forced him to play at a slower pace than he would otherwise be able to do. Davis, on the other hand, looked very promising, and his aggressiveness is sure to stamp him as a likely candidate for the mentor's varsity hoop squad next season. He displayed a good front shot and was excellent defensively, constantly harrying his opponent and in all covering himself in capable fashion. The defensive duties were cared for by Al Niemczura, Dick Morse, and Jim Cooney. Niemczura was a tower of strength in the backcourt and often came up the floor to sink some beautiful set shots, more often than not in crucial moments. Morse, was well on his way as one of the best of the yearling squad when he was forced to leave school at the expiration of the first semester. Cooney, his replacement, did a very fine job from there on, and played in the fifth slot for the remainder of the season. It was not the best freshman team that Rhody has had but one of the scrappiest.

BILL BECK'S freshman baseball team enjoyed a mediocre season but still managed to perform one of the rare feats of baseball. Although his team won only four out of seven games, they managed to whitewash the Gilbert School by a 6-0 score and pin a no-hit-no-run verdict on them in doing so. This is one of the rare occurrences in the sport. Boasting of few capable ball players, the club performed in a static fashion winning their first three games then turning around and dropping three out of their last four encounters.

The Frosh managed to defeat Providence College, Gilbert School, Brown University, and the University of Connecticut, all yearling nines. The scores in these games were: 11-4, 6-0, 3-2, and 7-4, respectively. They lost contests to Boston University, by a 5-6 tally in 10 innings, to Providence College by a 6-11 margin, and to Brown University by a 0-4 score.

Bob Magee and Ben Ferrazzano were the pitching stars on the frosh. Dave Hedison was the hitting star with an average of .345 in 29 times at bat. He also boasted a perfect fielding average. Anthony San Martino and Jim Cole were the other offensive aces with respective averages of .368 and .333 in 19 and 18 times at bat. Jack Doherty was the fielding star handling 84 chances with only two miscues. Vin Gruppiso, Les Stauff, and Mitchell Merollo were other regulars on the club. Don Dwyer, the regular centerfielder also boasted a perfect fielding percentage, and batted well in the pinches. Magee was the twirler of the 6-0 no-hit-no-run game against the Gilbert School. He together with Hedison and Dwyer will probably see multiple service with the varsity this spring.

met more than their match. Competing against Hope High School from Providence, and Cranston High School from Cranston, the Tootellmen could finish no better than second with $58 \frac{3}{5}$ points, while Hope had captured the meet with $62 \frac{4}{5}$ points, and Cranston trailed both with a $32 \frac{3}{5}$ total. This was the first defeat for a Ramlet track squad in many a year. La Salle Academy and Central High School came down a week later to try and FRESHMAN TRACK at Rhode Island State, although not as spectacular as the varsity's, has managed in recent years to go undefeated for a long period of time. Their meets may not have brought about as much interest, but they did produce similarly large scores. Last spring, however, they finally lost a meet. It was a triangular meet, not a dual meet. Their conquerors were in the person of the two best scholastic track and field teams in the State. Nevertheless, Coach Tootell has developed some capable talent which he feels sure will perform to satisfaction come this spring.

In their first meet with Westerly High, the Ramlets scored $119 \frac{1}{2}$ points out of a possible 126. But in the next meet, they repeat the performance of their scholastic brothers, but were not as successful. Instead, they absorbed a sound trouncing with Rhody gaining a substantial victory with a total of 92 points, while the best the visitors could do was to garner 62 points between them, 37 for La Salle, and 25 for Central. The Ramlets went on to trip the University of Connecticut frosh by a 97-38 margin and ended their season with a 77-49 shellacking of Brown University's first-year men.

One of the outstanding yearling trackmen in Rhody history competed for the Kingstonian newcomers. Bill Allan, a star in the hurdle and dash races, was the pivoting factor in the Ramlet's performances. He established an all-time individual record for one season, either varsity or frosh, by compiling the amazing total of 79½ points in the 5 meets he competed in. Among his achievements, he numbered 14 first places, two seconds, one third, one tie for third, and one fourth. He is one of the sure bets for the varsity this spring and comes at an opportune moment when hurdlers are scarce in the Rhody camp.

This record total of points compiled by William Allan as a member of the 1941 frosh track team sets a new all-time high in individual scoring for a single competitive season. Malo, Kopech, Coach Cieurzo, Dubois.

FOR those students who desire to engage in competitive sports, but whose abilities are not of varsity calibre, intramural sports afford an opportunity for fraternity men and affiliates of various campus organizations to compete in all sports.

The introduction of a new Intramural board to further coordinate interclass sports proved very successful. Coach Paul Cieurzo working with other members of the board devised a new aggregate point system listed below.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

P.I.K. continued reigning supreme in intramural sports by taking the Intramural Basketball Crown in a two out of three series with Alpha Tau Gamma.

This years basketball playoffs were the most hectic and the most evenly played games in the history of intramural basketball, with the first round ending up in a three-way tie. Theta Chi beat Beta Psi Alpha for the number one position in the first league with P.I.K. and Alpha Tau Gamma edging out Tavern Hall and Phi Mu Delta in the second and third leagues respectively.

P.I.K. and Alpha Tau Gamma entered the final round with P.I.K. beating Theta Chi and Alpha Tau drawing a bye.

The championship consisted of a two out of three game series. P.I.K. won the first game by a score of 30-24; Alpha Tau rolled over P.I.K. in the second game by a score of 32-20, thereby forcing a third game which P.I.K. won by a score of 34-29.

The highest individual scoring honors of the championship games was taken by Malo, Alpha Tau Gamma, with 33 points; second was Smith of P.I.K. with 30 points.

INTRAMURAL BASEBALL

Last spring P.I.K. easily clinched the Intramural Baseball championship by rolling over Alpha Tau Gamma in both games of a two out of three series in the finals.

Dave Lownds, P.I.K. twirling artist and best individual player, pitched both championship games. He has the distinction of being undefeated for the entire season besides pitching two no-hit, no-run games. Roland Lavalee also contributed some excellent mound performances while twirling for P.I.K. He pitched one no-hitter and several low-hit games. Effective hitting by Ed Maher, Bill Smith, and Jim Moreau added to their skill and won the pennant for them.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

Clarkin, Benheimer, Richmond, D'Arcy, Shanley, Platt.

Up to the fall of 1934, Mrs. Winifred Keaney and Miss Jo Less controlled the policies and procedures of the W. A. A. and operated the organization by a constitution drawn up by them. In this set-up arrangements and provisions were made for the offering of points for each sport, intramural, class and varsity, participated in by each co-ed. In 1934 it became necessary to revamp the constitution because the sports program changed appreciably. Roosevelt Hall, constructed on the women's track layout, removed the possibilities of a track team; horses at the Kingston stables were taken to Narragansett Pier, and riding was eliminated from the program; girls were not able to secure enough points in swimming; lack of enough ice during the winter months prevented point accumulation for winter sports; interest in hiking lagged. With increased enrollment, the advent of men's varsity tennis, and too few tennis courts to accommodate the tennis inter-class or intramural program, points were difficult to acquire for tennis. Thus the sports activities which provided points for accumulation since 1922 were replaced by varsity hockey, basketball, and tennis.

Therefore, Vera Rock, president of Women's Athletic Association in 1934 submitted with Miss Jo Lees and Helen Boardman, a new system of athletic awards whereby a girl might earn a sweater through participation for two years on one varsity team.

Also since the spring of 1935, the W. A. A. sponsor an annual banquet at which awards are formally presented and outstanding luminaries from other years renew old times.

This year the Rhody W. A. A. became a member of the American Federation of College Women. Ruth Whitaker, Virginia Spencer, Dorothy Nicholson and Kay Browning, freshman representative to W. A. A. attended the conference at Wellesly College.

In 1931, Miss Jo Lees, assistant to Mrs. Keaney then and late head of the women's physical education department, organized the first women's varsity hockey team. The youngest of the Ramlettes intercollegiate sports is tennis. The first match was played in 1935 and since then great advances have been made toward providing New York and Connecticut trips. Thus hockey, basketball, tennis are the varsity sports along with the rifle team which are offered for the co-ed athlete.

This year, Miss Lillian Wellner, the new head of the co-ed physical education department, has encouraged an enlarged folk dancing and intra-mural program. Also this year for the first time, the Pembroke College speed-ball team met our sophomore speed-ball class in a minor sport competition. As in other years, the sophomore manager of basketball, Miss Ruth Whitaker, was in charge of the intra-mural basketball program with the members of the coaching classes refereeing and acting as umpires. Single and double tournaments in ping-pong and badminton were also carried on.

HOCKEY

The 1941 hockey squad returned to the campus to inaugurate its eleventh year of varsity hockey at Rhode Island State College with only seven veterans. Stick work, routine plays and scrimmages were worked out intensively during Freshman Week and during the pre-school period. Practices are now held on the hockey field designated for that purpose. Since 1931, hockey has been played on various fields: On the quadrangle with the pucksters dodging the walks and the students, on-lookers and behind Edwards Hall. Finally in 1935, the area in front of Green Hall was designated as the regular hockey field.

Each year the team follows a precedent started in 1932 to play its first game with the Alumnae and its last game with the football team in a Tarzan-Amazon contest. This year the Ramlettes faced the strongest and best hockey teams in the east especially in its advance to Philadelphia where it met Ursinus and Drexel Institute. At these schools, the Ramlettes were defeated, 12-2 and 5-2, respectively, in hard fought, but futile battles. To compensate for the

In 1933, when varsity basketball was in its first stage, six competitive games were scheduled. As the years of varsity basketball advanced, the schedules became more quite complete and full. In its embryonic stage, they did not venture too far away from home. Each following year there was a decided increase in the number of games played, the number of players reporting for practice and the total number of points scored were also increased. It was also found necessary to have two schedules, a varsity schedule and one for the junior varsity. That practice was not carried out this year however. This year's season passed comparatively unsuccessfully with the varsity winning four and losing five of its games. The junior varsity played two games with Posse and broke out even, with one win and one loss.

High scorers this year were Nancy Carpenter and Janey Barlow. Co-captain Mary Clarkin was missed in the starting line-up, since she was unable to participate in sports because of illness. Mary D'Arcy and Annie Bristow can be considered as two steady and stalwart guards who played this season.

Varsity tennis is comparatively a young sport at Rhode Island State College. Last year for the first time in its history the team made a trip to New York where the girls played in two matches, one with New York University and the other with Hofstra College at Hempstead, Long Island, Thus the Ram-nets met on the tennis courts opponents whom they had met on the basketball court and on the hockey field.

The tennis team is the only varsity team besides the rifle team on which the Freshmen women are allowed to play.

Co-ed athletics at Rhode Island State College is a highlight of campus events. A great deal of progress has been made in the past twenty years of women's sports towards the promotion of friendship, admiration and respect among the co-eds themselves and toward acquiring these qualities from the various institutions with which they have participated. The beginnings of a co-ed sports program at Rhode Island State College embodied track, basketball, tennis, soccer, folk dancing and coaching theory under the direction of Mrs. Frank W. Keaney.

The first varsity basketball game, and the first game of any varsity series was played at the University of Connecticut in 1922 where the hoopsters were victors by one point. During the past decade the co-eds have extended their varsity trips in major sports to Philadelphia and New York. Co-ed athletics have expanded to an intensive varsity and intra-mural program with the opportunity of participation opened to each and every girl who enters Rhode Island State College. Due to the accelerated program, intra-mural sports have been enlarged.

THE Polygon, interfraternity governing body of the R. I. State College Campus, was organized in 1911. Although its original membership was only five, it has since grown to include twenty-four student members and three faculty advisors. This organization has done a great deal to establish and retain a spirit of cooperative effort between the numerous fraternities on campus. The most important function of the organization is to oversee the rushing campaigns; rules are formulated and enforced by this body in relation to rushing. Besides determining and regulating rushing rules the Polygon settles disputes between the fraternities and acts as an intermediary between the college and the fraternities.

The membership of the Polygon consists of two representatives from each fraternity and three faculty advisors. In order that the organization remain impartial, officers are elected by a rotation system and an entirely new set presides each year. The Polygon is the voice of the fraternities.

On October 15, 1908 Rho Iota Kappa, the first fraternity on campus, was organized. Its first home was at the Peckham Homestead, the present N.Y.A. Headquarters. From here P.I.K. moved to quarters in East Hall. The next home was the Boardman House. The present chapter house was opened in 1927 and is indeed a tribute to the first fraternity of Rhode Island State College.

The fraternity experiment is still in its infancy on the campus and it is everyone's hope that P.I.K. will show the way."

Founded with the underlying principles of good fellowship and brotherhood, P.I.K. has continually grown stronger.

Theta Chi, first known as Sigma Delta was the second local fraternity on this campus. Knowledge of the society's existence first became known to the campus on December 22, 1909 when a formal "coming out" party was held in Lippitt Hall.

Sigma Delta's petition for a charter was granted by Theta Chi fraternity on March 18, 1911. It is interesting to note that Eta chapter was the first national on this campus. Theta Chi has maintained several places of residence. At first the meetings were held in the attic of "Star Gables," a house on North Road; then at Tavern

Hall; in the fall of 1910 the Church House; and in 1921 moved to its present location. Eta chapter of Theta Chi was the first fraternity house to maintain a boarding department and also the first to have a house mother. In 1936, the fraternity celebrated its 25th anniversary of national affiliation with the publication of a book that reviewed its history. Theta Chi was destroyed by fire in 1937, but by 1938 the Theta Chis once again took possession of one of the finest buildings associated with the college.

In 1910, Beta Phi was organized as the third fraternity at Rhode Island State College with the Watson House as its first home. From the beginning, Dr. John Barlow has been associated with the fraternity and much can be credited to his interest and efforts.

Beta Phi built its second home in 1913. This building was the first to be built as a fraternity house at Rhode Island State.

In 1931, this house being too small, plans were made and by 1932 the present house was finished and occupied. This house is a tribute to the effort, work, and sacrifices of the brothers who made possible this beautiful home. The ideals of Unity and Progress upon which the fraternity was founded can be traced not only in the history of the fraternity, but can be seen in the contributions made to the college.

Delta Alpha Psi, the fourth oldest fraternity at Rhode Island State College was organized on December 10, 1910, by a group of five men living at East Hall.

In 1913 the fraternity was large enough so that a residence could be rented. By 1917 the ground was being broken for a new home. Finished in 1918, it was occupied as an officers' headquarters during the First World War. In 1935 the chapter was completely rebuilt and a large wing was added to it.

Delta Alpha is probably very well known as a house that houses visiting schools' mascots, for the Brown Bear, the Connecticut Husky, and the Providence College Friar have all been overnight guests of the Delta Alpha kidnappers.

There are 108 undergraduate chapters of Lambda Chi Alpha. The original Chapter was formed at Boston University on November 2, 1909. Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity now embraces a representation of undergraduate Chapters all over the United States and Canada; and alumni representation in all parts of the globe.

In the fall of 1914, on October 9, Eta Zeta was installed at Rhode Island State College as a charter member of that growing young National fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha. Since then it has been the pleasant task of the various historians to record a series of events marking a period of almost thirty years of uninterrupted progress for Eta. Likewise the life of the national organization to date has been marked by more than a decade of sound expansion and progress almost without parallel in the history of American College Fraternities. Rhode Island may be justly proud of Lambda Chi Alpha's achievements to date, both on Kingston Hill and throughout the nation.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was established at Rhode Island in 1920 as the local fraternity Zeta Pi Alpha. In 1929, following due petition, Zeta Pi Alpha was incorporated into the national body of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, the chapter to be known as Rhode Island Alpha of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. During the period 1929 to 1934 the fraternity was domiciled in what is now known as the Phi Sigma House. In 1934, after the completion of a new home, the chapter was moved to its present location within the college gates. During its activity as Sigma Alpha Epsilon the fraternity has been prominent in the diversified fields of endeavor open to its members. Throughout its entire career Sigma Alpha Epsilon has shaped its policies with the view of utmost compatibility with the standards and goals of both the college and the student body.

The local fraternity Beta Nu Epsilon come into being in the spring of 1922 with a membership of ten men. The following year with increased membership the group secured quarters in the old Lambda Chi Alpha house. As the chapter prospered the prospect of nationalization became an important factor of policy. Offers from many nationals were considered and finally, in April, 1928 it was decided to affiliate with Alpha Epsilon Pi. At the time of the induction Dr. Howard Edwards was initiated as an honorary brother, the first faculty member in the national fraternity. It was with his aid that the present site of the chapter house was secured and in 1930 the construction of the new building was completed.

The tenth anniversary of the founding of Rho chapter of Alpha Epsilon Pi was observed in 1938. The fraternity could look back at a decade of rapid growth and internal organization. In this period the men of A. E. Pi had developed a tradition of outstanding achievement in scholarship and participation in activities of the college.

Phi Mu Delta was founded March 1, 1918. It grew out of the National Federation of Common Clubs which was established at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn. in the spring of 1899. The chapters at the state universities of New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut were the mother chapters of the present fraternity.

The Rhode Island Chapter was originally established as a local fraternity, Delta Sigma Epsilon, in 1923 and used that which is now the Village Church House as its fraternity dwelling. In 1929 the local was absorbed by the National Phi Mu Delta and chartered as Nu Eta Chapter. The fraternity has twenty-one chapters and 2129 living members. The local chapter has a total enrollment of 214.

The name Rhode Island Campus Club was changed in 1929 and the name Phi Beta Chi was adopted, making it the seventh Greek letter fraternity on the campus.

Early in 1934 the present site was chosen. The new home was occupied immediately upon completion in November of the same year.

Since 1935 the fraternity had been seriously considering nationalization. Tau Kappa Epsilon was petitioned to this end. The inspection was passed with flying colors, and at a regular meeting of the fraternity on April 9, 1937 a unanimous vote of the members indicated their willingness to take immediate advantage of this grant.

We became Alpha Rho chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon on June 10, 1937.

Phi Sigma Fraternity was conceived by a group of students living off campus. They were drawn together by a desire to bind their friendship. Kenneth Whipple, the first president, held the first meeting in Tavern Hall in the spring of 1925. Phi Sigma Fraternity became "The Order of Phi Sigma" under incorporation by the Secretary of State in 1930. Phi Sigma has limited its membership by virtue of its constitution.

Phi Sigma's objective is to develop true friendship between brothers that will continue long after they have finished working for their common goal, a college education.

Alpha Tau Gamma was founded in the spring of 1929 and held its first meetings in what is now, Washburn Hall. The nucleus of the organization consisted of 23 charter members and Professor Ince as Faculty Advisor. After living for three years in the old Fortin house, the boys moved into the building they now occupy. The present membership totals 142 and 28 active members. In addition to Professor Ince, Dr. Odland and Professor McCauley serve as faculty advisors. The alumni and brothers have been aware of the fact that the present structure could no longer adequately serve the increasing requirements of the members. Consequently this year the house was entirely renovated both inside and out. The fraternity is proud of its past record and is confident of making an even better one in the future.

Beta Psi Alpha fraternity was founded in the year 1932. In nine short years the organization has grown to such an extent that today its total membership is well over a hundred. This year, however, due to the spirited and efficient efforts of its active alumni association, the brotherhood realized one of its greatest ambitions by recently moving into its beautiful new fraternity house. The house emphasizes Georgian architecture. The building is eighty feet long and the outside is finished with brick trimmed in white. The inside has all the modern conveniences desired and there is ample room to accommodate forty-two students comfortably. Foresight has been used to such an extent that any expansion or improvement that may be necessary in the future can easily be accomplished. Beta Psi can well be proud of the latest fraternity house on the campus.

PAN - HELLENIC ASSOCIATION is made up of all active sorority girls. From each of the four sororities, two members are chosen to serve on the governing Council. Members are selected at the end of their Sophomore year by their respective sorority sisters and serve on the Council during their Junior and Senior years.

Officers are active for one year only and are chosen in rotation from the sororities in the order of their establishment on campus. The first problem confronting Pan-Hellenic each year is the explanation of rushing rules to Freshman girls, which is followed by the preparation of freshman date books, to systematize the calendar of rush parties. Pan-Hellenic Council supervises rushing itself, and the final presentation of bids.

Meetings of the Council are held every other week, during which time inter-sorority relations are discussed and Greek letter problems attacked. Pan-Hellenic holds an annual ball in March, usually in Roosevelt Hall. The proceeds of this dance are used for scholarships each fall, which are presented to the girl in each class who attains the highest scholastic record of the previous year. The Pan-Hellenic shield is awarded at the same time to the Sophomore girl who made the highest record during the first semester of her Freshman year. In 1941 this was awarded to Darthea Bacon. The two scholarship awards were made to Marjorie Cowan and Darthea Bacon.

Chi Omega was founded at the University of Arkansas on April 5, 1895. Four young women of the University and Doctor Charles Richardson, a Kappa Sigma, were responsible for its establishment as the first strictly national Greek-letter society for women. From this small enrollment, Chi Omega has expanded from Maine to California in the last 47 years, until its chapter membership now numbers 96.

In the spring of 1917, a group of five students met with a member of the faculty of Rhode Island State College and together they planned the establishment of a local sorority, Omicron Alpha Alpha there in 1918. On May 10, 1922, the coveted charter to become Lambda Beta chapter of Chi Omega Fraternity was won. Under the advisorship of Miss Lucy Tucker, 22 undergraduate members and three Alumnae were admitted, as the fifty-fifth chapter of Chi Omega. The chapter contains 238 members to date.

Lambda Beta held its first meetings in the board rooms of the college, and later made its home in the old college bookstore. The fraternity house which is its present home, was built in 1928.

In 1924 Theta Delta Omicron was established on this campus as a local fraternity. It had membership of five girls and they held their meetings in the lodge which was formerly used by Chi Omega and Sigma Kappa.

A petition was granted Theta Delta Omicron in 1928 to become a member of Delta Zeta. So on March 3, 1928 they were initiated as Beta Alpha chapter with fifteen active members. The total membership of our chapter now is 42.

Delta Zeta was founded in 1902 at Miami University and spread very rapidly through the West and mid-West. Until last year, Beta Alpha was the only chapter in New England. To date, we have 52 chapters.

The East Hall Association is made up of all persons living in East Hall and was founded in 1933. Since that time the Association has won the Rowell-Schattle Memorial cup for scholarship standing five times.

During its short time in existence, the association has numbered among its members, two Mayors of Kingston, three class officers, two presidents of the Engineering Council, and three members of the executive board of the Beacon. At the present time, it has many actively connected with the college Radio Network.

Socially, the association started slowly, but has made great strides forward in the last two or three years; an annual off-campus banquet and two major dances are now annual events.

It might be said in closing that the association is looked upon more favorably than non-fraternity organizations on most other campuses.

Eleanor Roosevelt Hall, the imposing brick residence hall situated on lower college road, houses 117 girls at the present time. It was opened in 1937, and called the Brick Dormitory until its formal dedication ceremony on October 4, 1938, with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt present.

Many imposing social functions have been held in the beautiful Great Room of the dormitory, including the faculty reception for Dr. Woodward last fall; the Women's Student Government tea for our new president, and the tea given by the Board of Trustees in honor of Dr. Woodward, to which many state dignitaries were invited. In addition each year the Pan-Hellenic Ball is held in Eleanor Roosevelt Hall. Nu Alpha has a chapter room in this building, and Women's Student Government also has its room here.

Girls living in the dormitory are members of the association, and membership is not restricted. The association entered into scholarship competition with sororities and the Phaeacians in the fall of 1938.

As the college this spring celebrates its fiftieth anniversary, the Student Senate marks its first birthday. Organized a year ago by a group of interested students and faculty members under the sponsorship of the Sachems, the Student Senate fills a long-felt need on the campus.

Its chief function is to serve as the student governing body, but it also provides a medium through which direct and close contact can be maintained between the students, the faculty, and the administration. The Senate is, in addition, the only campus organization which is truly representative of the entire student body.

At the beginning of its second year, the foundations having been solidly laid, and the inevitable preliminary adjustments having been made, the Senate is prepared to assume ever-increasing responsibilities. But, however important the successful operation of the Senate may become to the college, it will be of still more vital significance to the nation because of its democratic ideals and system.

The Sachems is an honorary organization made up of fifteen Seniors, eleven men and four women, and three faculty advisors. In May of their Junior year, these students are tapped for membership on the basis of their participation in campus activities and creditable scholarship.

The name Sachem is the Indian name for "chief", and although not a campus governing body, the Sachems are regarded as leaders and are respected for their sincere interest in student affairs. During the past year their program has been a busy one in efficiently enforcing Freshman rules under the supervision of the Vigilantes, in conducting class elections, running the Mayoralty campaign and sponsoring campus dances. The Sachems have also established an honor roll of Rhode Island men who have joined the services and endeavored in many ways to maintain the traditions of Rhode Island State College.

From the Sachems group, committees have been appointed to work out solutions of various campus problems. A student government association has been formed with their cooperation, to act as a connecting link between students and faculty members in discussing campus difficulties. The members of the Sachems are distinguished by their blue jackets, with the Indian Head emblem on the pocket.

The Women's Student Government Association is composed of all the women students in the college. It is the only women's student governing body, and was established to cooperate with the administration in making and enforcing rules of co-ed conduct.

The Student Council of W.S.G.A. is composed of annually elected officers, representatives from the various classes and women's organizations and Presidents of the women's dormitories. The Council is directly concerned with the enforcement of rules regulating co-ed conduct; violators of rules are brought before this Council of fifteen for hearing, trial and punishment at its bi-monthly meetings.

W.S.G.A. sponsors a fall tea to acquaint Freshman women with the upperclass girls, women faculty and wives of the men faculty members. The Association sponsors an organization of Junior Counsellors who act as guides to Freshman girls and conduct Freshman Stunt Night. In the future this organization strengthened this year, will be responsible for the enforcement of the Sachem's rules regarding Freshman women.

W.S.G.A. supervises, also, the traditional May Day activities on campus. At this time Junior and Senior girls from high schools in Rhode Island are invited to celebrate the crowning of Rhode Island's May Queen and to visit the women's houses and dormitories.

Each year the association has sent two of its officers to the New England conference of student government representatives from various eastern colleges. This practice of teaching and instruction for officers helps the organization to improve its functions in governing and controlling the students with a minimum of control from the faculty.

Phi Kappa Phi is a national honorary society promoting good scholarship. It is the highest scholastic honor, and probably the most cherished honor at Rhode Island State College, that a student may obtain.

The membership is limited to ten percent of the Senior Class, and students are required to have an average of two points or more in order to be eligible. A few members are elected each fall and the remainder are initiated in the spring.

Phi Kappa Phi sponsors an Honors Assembly program in the fall at which time individual prizes for scholarships are given and the scholastic ratings of houses and dormitories are announced. The members also hold an evening program each winter for freshmen whom they believe to be prospective Phi Kappa Phi members.

Phi Sigma is a national honorary biological society. The Alpha Xi Chapter was established at Rhode Island State College in 1935.

Membership is based on honor standing in biology subjects during freshman and sophomore years, a positive interest in the field of biology, and good character. The chapter at Rhode Island State College has emphasized the value of individual research, and during the past years many of the members have been doing experimental research on botany, physiology, and marine zoology.

Professor DeWolf and Dr. Hunter, as advisors of the society, have shown a great deal of interest in its advancement. The Biologist is the national publication which is issued four times a year. Alpha Xi Chapter also has its own publication, The Cell, which appears at the annual banquet.

During the year each class puts out a special issue. The freshman issue appears before the Frosh Banquet in late spring. Just before the Hop, the sophomores put out their publication, and in early spring the juniors put out their issue prior to the Junior Prom. The Commencement issue, the last one of the year, is dedicated to the senior class.

The Beacon is representative of student ideas, publishing all letters and articles on student or college problems.

The Scroll, the campus literary society, has advanced a lot in the four years it has been operating on campus. It was founded in 1938 under the guidance of just a few students.

Dr. Kenneth L. Knickerbocker and Miss A. Reilly are the faculty advisors. Meetings are held weekly in a classroom in Quinn Hall, at which time speakers are presented to the club. At meetings where there are no scheduled speakers, various students present literary programs. During the past year, talks were given on poetry, old literature, drama, purposes of the Scroll society, and contemporary literature. This season special emphasis was given to Pan-American literature.

Many members of the Scroll have writing ability, and individual creative work has been encouraged. Scroll members often enter the writing contest sponsored by the English department each spring.

Tau Kappa Alpha is a national forensic society, existing in seventy-eight colleges. Its members in the Rhode Island chapter are chosen from the outstanding debaters in the Portia Club and Wranglers.

The Portia Club is the women's debating club on the campus. Of all the extra-curricular organizations on the campus, the debating societies were the most seriously by World War II. With the declaration of war, most of the available subjects for debate and discussion had to be discarded. Also, some colleges discontinued inter-collegiate debating.

In spite of these handicaps, the Portia Club had both an active and a successful year. There were a few home debates, and three long trips. The most outstanding trip of the year was made to Jackson College and Dartmouth College, in December.

Besides debating and participating in panel discussions, members of the Portia Club also took active parts in the Model Congress and debate receptions. Professor George E. Brooks, who has been the club's advisor since he came to the campus, was his usual invaluable self.

The Engineering Council of Rhode Island State College was organized in 1938. This group is made up of two members from each of the four engineering societies. Its chief function is to create a closer relationship between the societies and thus to coordinate the affairs and activities of the four societies with a view toward stimulating improvement of engineering as a whole.

The council sponsors a smoker and banquet each year. Two years ago the council was instrumental in publishing the first engineering magazine at the college, The Integral.

The Engineering Council sponsors the Slide Rule Strut which was presented for the first time in 1939. This semi-formal dance uses technical surroundings and apparatus as a background and has been received with such enthusiasm by the student body that it has developed into a popular annual affair.

The Chemical Engineering Society is the youngest of the engineering groups on the campus. It was founded in 1937. Not for long did it remain a local, for on December 15, 1938, Dr. M. E. Molstead of Yale University, Secretary of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, installed the Rhode Island chapter as a member of the national student organization. Rhode Island followed Yale, M.I.T., and Northeastern in its affiliation with the Institute. Although it is still fairly young, the Chemical Engineering Society has lost little time in stimulating professional interest among its members in the wide field of chemical engineering. This has been accomplished through periodic conferences and field trips to many industrial plants.

In 1932 the Civil Engineering Society of Rhode Island State College became affiliated with the American Society of Civil Engineers. Since that time the local group has progressed rapidly in interest and activity. Through the excellent program afforded the society by means of its meetings, those students who have the desire to develop into the designers of bridges, parkways, buildings and dams of tomorrow, have the opportunity to become better acquainted with professional engineers, their work, and practices. Those who attend the periodic meetings of the society hear lectures by men with first-hand information in the field of engineering. Movies, discussion, conferences and field trips all do their part in helping the Civil Engineers at Rhode Island State College to increase their knowledge and experience in that field in which they are interested.

The Electrical Engineering Society, which was founded way back in 1898, has the distinction of being the oldest of all the Engineering Societies at Rhode Island State College. In 1923 the local society joined the national organization, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The main service performed by the society is the promotion of student interest by encouraging full participation at the regular meetings of the society, by arrang-

The society has been instrumental in fostering friendship among the different students and classes in electrical engineering and has provided contacts with men in this field on the outside.

The second oldest of the engineering societies at Rhode Island State College was founded in 1904 as the Mechanical Engineering Society. Since that time it has developed into the largest of the engineering societies. This group fosters interest in the field of mechanical engineering through the media of lectures by engineers, movies, and discussions on topics which are of importance to those students who wish to become future mechanical engineers. Through its affiliation with the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in 1928 the smaller group was given the opportunity to see and hear professional men in the field of mechanical engineering. Of very great importance to the members of the society are the Society's Employment Service and Engineering Council for Professional Betterment which will be sources of great benefit to the members after they have left college.

The Radio Club was organized several years ago in order to be of assistance to those members who wish to pass the government's tests for licenses; at the same time the club could enable licensed members to continue their radio work. In 1938 the club's importance was realized when it handled radio traffic for South County during the hurricane of that year.

The club keeps daily schedules with New England stations as well as with other western and southern stations. The Rhode Island Radio Club belongs to the Rho Epsilon Fraternity which is a national fraternity for amateur radio clubs in colleges.

Recently the club was very instrumental in organizing and starting on its way the present Radio Network.

Through the efforts of the students of R.I.S.C., the Network became a reality in March, 1940. A charter member of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, the Rhode Island State College Network, after months of experimenting and actual operation, has become a most efficient college broadcasting system.

The control room and studios are located in Edward's Hall with transmission lines leading to all dormitories and houses. The studios were originally designed as music rooms and are therefore semisoundproof. The present operating frequency is about 575 kc, but with the FCC changing the allotted broadcasting frequencies, a better frequency may be chosen.

Through its relationship with the parent organization, the IBS, the Network offers valuable training for those interested in all phases of the radio industry. Personnel cards of all members of the Network are placed on file in the New York offices of the IBS where they are easily accessible to CBS and other larger networks.

The Newman Club of Rhode Island State College is a member of the National Newman Club Federation whose aim is to foster Catholic thought and culture. An intensive program of discussion on religious and ethical topic, is conducted as well as a varied social program.

The outstanding feature of the club's activities is the three-day Spiritual Retreat conducted annually. The students appreciate the opportunity offered and show their appreciation by their excellent attendance. A Communion Breakfast is held each year in the spring.

As part of its social program the club conducts a dance annually during Freshman week. The Freshman officers respond to this invitation with a social of some sort later in the year.

Outside lecturers are brought on campus for the open meetings of the club. This year, in place of regular business meetings, the club has sponsored a series of studies of the Christian Apologetics, conducted by Reverend Paul Lloyd. As Chaplain, Reverend Lloyd has been the club's inspiration for continual advancement, and is largely responsible for its successful program of activity.

The Student Fellowship, an organization of young people, is sponsored by the village church and is open to all college students. Its meetings are held each Sunday evening, offering social and educational entertainment to all who gather at the church house. The first meeting of the year is usually an informal party for the purpose of getting acquainted with the freshmen. Other meetings which follow are made interesting by speakers who are invited to talk on social, moral and general topics of interest to people of college age. Sometimes the speakers are college professors, well known lecturers or writers. Panel discussions have been held in the past and have proved most successful and enlightening to those who participated. Outdoor meetings are held occasionally. One of the most outstanding meetings held this year was one at which a trio of traveling collegians, one of each of the three sects, a Protestant, a Catholic and a Jew, spoke and conducted an informal discussion. Program arrangement is placed in the hands of a Cabinet of able representatives from houses and dormitories on the campus, who are ever alert to the collegiate interest.

Under the advisorship of Rev. Schramm, the Student Fellowship has done much toward getting students together informally and in fostering friendly relationships between them.

The purpose of the International Relations Club is to promote an interest and discussion in current world affairs.

Meetings are held once a week and each member, during the course of the year, leads a discussion on his favorite international topic.

Each year four students are chosen by the faculty advisors to represent the club at the annual New England International Relations Club Conferences. The conferences are held at different New England colleges each year. This year the conference was held at Smith College. Dr. Daniel Thomas, Fred Tew, Henry Fuyat, Ernest Wood, and Frank Nunes represented Rhode Island State College at the two-day conference.

During the past year three new faculty were added to the club. In addition to Professor Robert Rockafellow, new faculty advisors are: Dr. Amy Gilbert, Dr. Daniel Thomas, and Professor Richard Jones.

The Socius Club, now six years old, is an organization which has as its purpose the promotion of interest in the sociological studies by showing the importance of these studies in their application in the world today.

Lectures given by professional people show how sociology is related to many different fields, and movies presented to the members of the club give them some indication of what has been done and what remains to be done in social welfare work. The group takes occasional trips to prisons, institutions, and similar places, so that members may get first-hand information on the work in which they are interested.

The Home Economics Club began its activities in 1921, and boasts a large organization. Membership is intended for those persons taking the Home Economics course. The club meets once a month, and at this time speakers from every field of home economics, including interior decoration, nutrition, and food demonstration, are presented to the members and offer valuable information concerning their particular line of work.

This year, for the first time, the Home Economics staff entertained club members at an after dinner coffee. The organization also gave a farewell tea in honor of Dr. Esther Batchelder, former Dean of Home Economics, when she resigned last January.

The aim of the organization is to present its members with facts about domestic science which will help them in their quest for suitable work after graduation.

In addition to acting as a marching band for the R.O.T.C. unit, it has been outstanding at the athletic events of the college. At the Brown University and the Providence College football games, the band represented Rhode Island. It has played a prominent part in all the "pep rallies" of the current year.

The "Blue and White" Band will end its present season with the annual assembly program.

Phi Delta, the only dramatic organization on the campus at the present time, was organized in the spring, twenty-one years ago. This year the organization has come of age and at the same time has been awarded a new faculty advisor, Dr. Colby Lewis. An able director and coach, Dr. Lewis has given guidance and aid of many kinds to the organization and during his first year of association, he has instigated new improvements for better dramatic productions and more sound organization.

On Friday, December 5th, Phi Delta demonstrated three kinds of comedy by presenting as a trio of Freshman plays, E. P. Conkle's, "Sparkin", Thornton Wilder's, "The Happy Journey" and Arkady Averchenko's, "The Power of Fate". Presentation of the Freshman plays has been an annual fall activity of the club.

The outstanding feature of the club's activities until last year, had been the production, each each spring, of a musical Revue. This was, traditionally an all-Rhode Island, all-student production.

The costumes, dance-routines, make-up lighting, scenery, staging, writing of the script and music were all handled by the students of Rhode Island State College, under the direction of Phi Delta members. In 1941, the year's full-length production however, was not a musical comedy, but a presentation of Oliver Goldsmith's 18th century comedy, "She Stoops To Conquer". As the Grist goes to press, the club's plans are undecided as to the 1942 major production which is still unnamed and uncast.

Through membership in Phi Delta and participation in its activities, students are given an opportunity to develop initiative and ability. In addition to acting there is open to members activity in other lines, such as make-up designing, music, lighting and other back-stage performances. Membership in Phi Delta which this year totals near sixty, is acquired only through participation in Freshman plays or work behind the scenes.

Scabbard and Blade is a national military honor society with eighty-six local chapters, called companies, located at various leading colleges and universities which have departments of military or naval science and tactics. The organization was founded at the University of Wisconsin in 1904 with the idea that such a society would be vital in developing and fostering the ideals and practices of military education in the United States.

H Company, 6th Regiment of Scabbard and Blade was established on the Rhode Island State College campus in 1927. Scabbard and Blade sponsors the annual Military Ball at which the Junior Cadet Officers are tapped for membership and the selection of the honorary Co-ed Colonel is announced.

This year Miss Muriel Dickinson of Chi Omega Sorority was selected Co-ed Colonel of the Rhode Island Scabbard and Blade.

SOPH HOP

In a decorative nautical setting, the Soph Hop, first formal dance of the year, was successfully presented in Rodman Hall on November 10, 1941. The colored spot lights shone on the largest gathering this outstanding event has ever occasioned. More than two hundred couples danced gaily to the unusual and versatile orchestrations of the nation's newest top-notch band.

Hal McIntyre, a protege of Glen Miller and his band, came to us after completing a sensational engagement at the Glen Island Casino. Featured by Hal himself, one of the best sax players in the country, and his two capable vocalists, Penny Parker and Carl Denny, the band gave a smooth and diversified performance that was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

As a fitting climax to the dance of the class of 1944, Mary Lightbody, representative of Sigma Kappa, was selected queen of the sophomore class by a trio of judges consisting of: Coach William Beck, vocalist Carl Denny, and Hal McIntyre.

The fourth annual Slide Rule Strut was held on January 30, 1942 in Lippitt Hall. Through the earnest efforts of Phillip Duffy, general chairman, and his committee the dance was a brilliant success.

Amid the surroundings of working models of engineering accomplishments, a gay crowd enjoyed the pleasing rhythms of Billy Carlin and his orchestra.

Each couple attending the dance was awarded a cash prize of P dollars. P was determined by a mathematical relation which varies directly with the "coefficient of affectance," whose significance was determined by a newly designed "Affectance Meter."

In contrast with past years, the candidates for Queen were selected from co-eds attending the dance. During the evening five candidates were selected; then the final decision was made, and Miss Jessie Small was crowned Queen of Engineers.

Chairman Duffy and Queen Jessie Small

MILITARY BALL

Muriel Dickinson and Pres Woodward

In an atmosphere of war activity, the Military Ball surpassed former ones in decorations and impressive ceremony. The Ball was held on Friday evening, February 20, 1942 in Rodman Hall. The Ball is an annual one held yearly prior to Washington's Birthday by the Scabbard and Blade, National Honorary Military Society.

The motif of the dance, as might be expected, was military. This year it seemed especially appropriate with the United States at war. An archway of red, white, and blue streamers decorated the entrance to the dance, and the gymnasium itself was transformed into a beautiful ballroom by the use of bunting, varicolored lights, and American Eagles. The numerous uniforms of the cadet officers and students, the colorful dress uniforms of the guests and the returning alumni, who are once again in the Nation's service, increased the military atmosphere.

After dancing to the music of Dick Rogers and his orchestra and listening to several of the clever arrangements and specialty numbers, the military program began. Silence reigned; first came the impressive ceremony of the Senior Cadet Officers, and then the sabre arch by the Juniors. All this heralded the unveiling of the new honorary co-ed. Stepping out of the darkness with a sole spotlight shining on her came Muriel Dickinson, one of the prettiest Co-Ed Colonels ever selected. The manner of selection of the Colonel is very secretive. Five candidates for the honor were selected by the Scabbard and Blade Members. During the week preceding the dance, students enrolled in the military courses at college voted. The new Co-Ed Colonel was presented to the public by her predecessor and her title was bestowed upon her by Dr. Carl R. Woodward, president of the college.

Jeane Yare and Co-ed Colonel Ruth Oldrid

Candidates Marie Ballirano and Anne Palow

Junior Cadet Officers were then tapped and presented for membership in the Honorary Military Society. Perhaps the most inspiring moment of the evening occurred when with the dimming of lights, the flick of sabres, the flag was unfurled while the orchestra played the Star Spangled Banner.

To Albert Evans, general chairman, and his committee, goes a lot of credit for making the forty-sixth annual Military Ball on the campus of Rhode Island State College the most successful one ever held.

JUNIOR PROM

The night of May 5, 1941, belonged to the Junior class. In a haze of soft colors and beautiful surroundings, to the accompaniment of music from an outstanding band, class members and guests danced away an evening exclusively theirs.

The colors were lent by the gowns of the co-eds and the blossom theme of the decorations; the beautiful surroundings were the Biltmore Ballroom and its attractive foyer; and the outstanding band was Tony Pastor, whose theme song "Blossoms" was the inspiration for the Ballroom's festive attire.

A few sharp notes of reality penetrated the dreamy quality of the evening, however — the over energetic conga enthusiast who fell with true enthusiasm; the lovely blond vocalist who had a few of the girls a bit apprehensive about their respective escorts; and the photographer who punctured the nicest moments with glaring flashlight bulbs.

Two lines were formed during the evening — a wieldy, winding conga line, and one that formed in front of the elevators during intermission. The fortunate ones in the latter congregation were the girls with football players for escorts.

Those receiving included: Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. C. G. MacLeod, Dr. and Mrs. John Barlow, Miss Josephine T. Lees and guest, Dr. and Mrs. Harold W. Browning, Dr and Mrs. Vernon I. Cheadle, Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Frank U. Greer, and Professor and Mrs. Herbert Hafford. After the many couples, approximately 275 had been formally introduced to the patrons and patronesses, dancing proceeded in full swing to such favorites as the novel "Parradille Joe" and "Java Jive", superbly executed by a top-notch band, with Maestro Pastor continuously and graciously autographing the various sundry articles offered him by the throng around the bandstand.

The climax of the evening came when the seven lovely candidates for the coveted title of "Prom Queen" danced before the judges and spectators, resulting in the crowning of class vice-president Marv Clarkin as Queen of the 1941 Junior Prom.

The success of the dance was due largely to the untiring efforts of the Prom Committee, composed of: Arnold Anderson, chairman; Charles Hazard, orchestra; Robert Gammons, tickets; Barbara O'Neil, patrons; John Joyce and Donald Johnstone, Publicity; Lester Snider and Raymond Giordano, decorations; and Richard Forte, programs. They made of our most important Junior class function one that we will not easily forget. And incidentally, it was the only financially successful Junior Prom held by a State class, to our knowledge.

CLASS PROPHECY

HELLO, ladies and gentlemen! This is your sports announcer, Fred O'Connor, speaking. It's November 11, 1962 and we're on the air coast-to-coast, to broadcast the 22nd Annual Rhode Island State College Carnival from Keaney Stadium in Kingston, Rhode Island. The Stadium was named for Coach Keaney who you know is now serving on the Advisory Board of Athletics at Columbia University. This year's carnival promises to be one of Rhody's best, according to our sponsors, Giordano, Goldstein and Golubowski, makers of that fine "Three G's Gingérale", "the ale that tells the tale."

The major attraction at Kingston today is to be this fiery clash between the unbeaten, and unscored-upon Rams and plucky neighbors from Connecticut University who were the 1961 All-New England champs. Rhody's out to grab that title today. But it's ten minutes to game time, so we'll just take a minute to give you listeners a bird's-eye view of the mammoth crowd gathered here. It's the Twentieth Anniversary of the Class of '42, and the stadium is infested with the loyal sons who have come back to cheer the Alma Mater to victory.

Wait a minute! What do I see at the far end of the stadium? No, it's not the score board, it's Maurie Flynn! He's watching the beauty contest being staged for the Carnival guests by the Sanik Super Markets. The winner, I hear, is to receive a free manicure at Madame Oldrid's Beauty Salon, newly opened on North Road, across the street from the Rutledge Lubritorium, Gasoline Station and Parking Lot. And whom do I see as judges in the contest, but five of my Rhody classmates of '42, McKeon, Kershaw, D'Avanzo, Fine, and Belsey.

The R.O.T.C., under the direction of Colonel Louis Hampton and Major Joe Sullivan, has just taken its place on the 20 yard line, and here come Dr. and Mrs. Richard Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Laboissonniere, and the Ryans, along with Elaine and Dick Cotter who have just come from a tea at Barbara and Fred Hancock's new home at the army post on Point Judith, where Fred has recently been made General. The Cotters are doing very well with their Florist shop in North Kingstown.

The Carnival Committee has asked me to remind you of the dance being held in the Gymnasium this evening. You are all invited to attend and hear the music of Sam Barker and his band, featuring Rosalie Burt, blues vocalist, and the Four Music Makers quartette, Benson, Gammons, Johnson and McKenna.

Oops! One of the fair spectators — it's Betty Hyde — has just fainted at the sight of "Al" and Marilyn Crandall who have appeared, bringing their family of six girls, who are ardent football fans, and haven't missed a game this year. Dr. T. J. Master-son is running to her assistance with black bag in hand, but it is all right folks, for Ruth Hannah has already brought her to with First Aid treatment.

The boys have just come on the field now, followed by their coach, Eddy Maher, who is making a record for himself in the sports world. His assistants, Obradovich, Tingley, and Romano are giving the players their last minute instructions. Also on the bench is "Doe" Friedman and his assistant Myrtle Meyer, to see that no harm comes to the players.

I hear a fanfare of trumpets, for who has just appeared but Rhode Island's new representative to U. S. Senate, Morton Goldman, and his business managers, the Kopechs. Misses McCrudden, Potts, Goff, and Easterbrooks, his honor's secretarial staff, are following in his wake. Lester Snider, his chauffeur, is talking to the new Dean of Women, Dr. Shirley Peters, and telling her of their trip over the new Providence to Wakefield Highway, just completed by engineers, Stella, Piozzi, and Miska, former Rhody graduates.

Why, there are all sorts of notables in the crowd today! There comes Mae Burt, the writer of this year's best seller "The Moon Was My Upcoming", with her proteges Vici Lazarek, and Dorothy Barber, and the boys who print their books, Wilson, Pickett, McGarry and Sons. My colleague reporters, Dick Peck, Paul Pignolet and Bob Davis, are all here to catch the highlights of today's game for tomorrow's news. Photographers Fuyat, Seigelman and Gudeczauskas, headed by the Journal New's ace cameraman, George Buivid, are covering the action of the game for the theatre fans. And there is that female camera-shark, O'Neil, snapping pictures of Meola, Curtin, Clarkin and Farnworth for use in the Stylish Women's Wear magazine which she and Marguerite Quinn are publishing.

Everyone is looking aloft now at the planes which are flying overhead in salute to the day. It is probably McCaskey, Sweet, Evans and Hazard, who will take you up in their private planes for a slight charge. I see Drs. Cubler and Cardillo eyeing the possibilities of an accident, while Ruth Crandall, Renee Kahn, and Pearl McDonnell admire the perfect formation and anxiously await their sons' display on the field in the line-up for today's game. Thomas Matthews and Stutz Modzelewski look a little nervous too, for their sons are co-captains of the Rams this year.

Also among the notables we see Betty Moore, art critic, Wilton Sunn who writes the Philosophy Corner for the N. Y. Gazette, and Richard Tobin, who has just discovered a new formula for crystallizing Vitamins A, T, and G. He and his assistants, Perry, Phillips, Thomson, Erhardt, and Brown are working on a new process in which they plan to utilize the Rhode Island clam shell chemically. Working in conjunction with them are researchists, Hankins, Sayles, Moreau and Robert. Martha Corrigan and Josephine McMahon have willingly offered themselves as human guinea pigs in the experiment.

The fleet must be in, for there is Vice-Admiral Andy Anderson and Captains Thomas, Simeone and LaPidus from the

S. S. Dunes, anchored at Narragansett Pier. They look as if they enjoyed themselves last night at Rolly Parent's new dancing emporium in Peacedale. Parent's Emporium features Bristow and Brown, comedienues, nightly in its floorshow with Sumner Halsband acting as Master of Ceremonies. Dance instructions are offered, for no extra charge to patrons, by the world famous John Moran, and you may learn voice culture and piano under the supervision of the Greer course, for a small additional fee.

Here comes Paul Hines, Head of the State Board of Public Roads, with Henrickson, Di Maio, Barnes, Wilson, Kechijian, and Chiulli who work with him. They are trying to help Pat Walsh through the crowd with her nursery school class of twelve. Little Juniors, Frances Maguire, Noel MacKinnon, and Bob Townsend, 2nd, are having trouble keeping out from under the feet of the score-keepers Ray Dyer, and Gilbert Hicks, and linesman, John Mooshoian.

There is a handsome gentleman pacing the track here in front of the press box, who must be paying off a bad bet. It's David Lownds toting a sandwich board announcing the opening of Jim Dean's new Sporting Goods store in Biscuit City. Morris Baram is the Vice-President and Charlie Bergesson will manage his advertising. Demonstrations of sports equipment are free and you may be instructed in tennis by Fred Tew, in skiing by Dick Forte, in golfing by Lloyd Conrad, and in rifle by Miriam Shanley. You may receive practical training in archery and bowling from Miss Benheimer who is also Assistant Director of Athletics at Rhode Island. Dave Barlow has opened up a riding academy nearby, with the help of Edith Robinson and Bob Simpson.

There have been several valuable additions to the faculty from the Class of '42. Palazzo and Rossi are Dean Wales' new assistants, while Moroney and Martin have taken over the teaching of the marriage courses. The new Dean of Agriculture, Dr. Francis McVay has recently appointed Professors Johnson, Warren and Northup to preside over the classrooms in Washburn Hall. The new waitress system that you noticed in the cafeteria was inaugurated by the St. Germain sisters, who are in charge there now. The delicious meals served are the products of cooks, Argentieri, Norton, and Monti. They are rapidly building up Lippitt's reputation as one of the choicest of South County's eating places.

The remodeling of South Hall, another great campus change, won the State Architectural Prize for contractor George Boule. Other contestants were Daley, Frazier, and Davis, who received honorable mention for their renovation of East Hall, including the transportation to its new location on South Road.

It is almost time for the presentation of the cup which is awarded each year to the alumnus who has done the most for his Alma Mater. Here comes the Alumni Committee, Calenda, Taber, and McCullough, headed by the President, Dexter Haven. President Haven is about to present the cup to Albert Carpenter for his excellent work in landscaping the Rhode Island campus, especially the area extending behind Roosevelt Hall. His associates in this venture, Arthur Fishbein, Jack Joyce and Louis Corsi, are being awarded blue ribbons for their services.

There is great excitement at the far end of the stadium. Anne Denico, Motion Picture Academy Award winner for 1962 has just arrived with her publicity agent, John Beck. No wonder there is such excitement, for she is accompanied by her leading man in her latest picture, Walter Siravo, and her director, Milton McVay. Other starlets who came in on the special train from Hollywood to be present at their 20th Anniversary are Barbara Emery, Myrtle Abedon, and Mary Healey. The photographers are going wild now, trying to keep track of the public figures in this crowd, for here come former Olympic stars, Les Nichols, Norm Wilcox and Mel Jewett.

By the way, if any of you young ladies haven't escorts for the dance this evening, you may arrange for dates through Thomas Ashworth's Supreme Escort Service which is meeting with great success on the campus. Bob Goodman, Lyman Cranston, Ray Bliss and Ira Bornstein help him choose his clientele and we assure you that service is cordial and dignified.

Most of the fans here this afternoon have been talking about the success of the new clinic opened up at Scarborough-by-the-Sea, by Drs. D'Arcy and Edmonds. The wonders worked by Chiropodists, Barry and Barwich are renowned and are surpassed only by the work of Bargamian and Barlow, who are researching in the use of ultra-violet ray for the cure of neural ailments. Fred Kostka, Dick Houghton and Bill Webster admit that they have been aided greatly by the treatment they have received, and the new taxi service inaugurated by Jack Ferris and George Ganim between Point Judith and Kingston has boosted the trade. Russell Dubois and Yale Gordon are making a success of the bus line from the Railroad to the campus because it provides comfortable, inexpensive commutation for campus week-enders.

I have just time before the game starts to publicly thank Harry Hedison and Frank Donilon for the donation of the new Rhody Ram mascot from their sheep farm in North Scituate. I'd like to have time to read Flo Hornstein's prediction about today's game in her sports column, but the referees, Sweeney and McNally are running out to the field and there is the whistle! — Sorry folks, Phil Duffy, chairman of the network, has just notified me that further details of the game are impossible due to a special program about to be presented. So we must sign off with the hope that tomorrow's news will be of the Rhody champs of '62. That is all.

MAY DAY

May Pole Dance

The women students of Rhode Island State College presented their annual May Day celebration on May 2nd.

Sponsored by the Women's Student Government Association the event marked the "capping" of the presidents of all women's organizations for the coming year by the out-going presidents and featured the climactic crowning of the queen of the May. The freshmen and sophomore women then presented the Queen and her court the folk dance and the May Pole dance, respectively. The Queen of the May was chosen from a court of senior women including, Rosalie Burt, Ilene Barber, Barbara O'Neil, Helen Curtin, Renee Kahn, Elizabeth Healy, and Helen St. Germain.

The senior class procession was lead by Dorothy Barber, vice-president of the class, and the junior ivy procession was lead by Muriel Walling, secretary of the junior

As in other years the senior girls from the various Rhode Island high schools were the honored guests during the festival and were entertained at tea in Eleanor Roosevelt Hall.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The publication of the 1942 GRIST is not entirely the work of the Seniors. There are many who, each year, help the staff by suggestions, contributions, and cooperation.

We are particularly thankful to the following:

Dr. Harold W. Browning for general advice.

Mr. William C. Mokray for his athletic pictures in the GRIST, and Mr. George Gee and Mr. Herbert M. Hofford for use of their Prom pictures.

Mr. Bromage of the Providence Journal for his leniency in allowing us to use some of their pictures.

Frank Lanning of the Providence Journal for his very pleasing and worthy presentation of the cartoons which appear in the GRIST.

Charlie Williams and Harry Scheer for their contributions of pictures.

Those interested students and faculty members who assisted the staff by contributions of pictures, material, and time.

The printing staff of the Barad-Perry Printing Co., and Mr. John Hanrahan of the Crahan Engraving Co. for their very able and unselfish assistance.

A Mark of Quality

Wherever New England men of good taste gather you'll find the Kennedy label in great evidence. For years this mark has been their guiding star in the selection of their clothing. It represents the accumulation of years of experience outfitting men and young men with the clothing they want at prices they want to pay. It's in the light of this experience that New England men, in ever increasing numbers come to Kennedy's.
